The Reply to Prince Milan's Speech.

KRAGUJEWATZ, Servia, September 16.—The discussions in the committee of the Skuptschina on the address in reply to Prince Milan's speech have already commenced, and will probably last till Saturday. The members of the minority, who are in favor of war, it is believed, have now gained over several members in the debates already had in committee. Attempts to secure a compromise before submitting the draft of the address to the Skuptschina are still earnestly pushed, but it is feared the party of action will be victorious, especially as the population is becoming more urgent for war. The Ministry will oppose war, even if the committee report in favor of it, to the length of resignation. The peace party is less hopeful, but it has not yet abandoned its efforts.

Later.—Forty-two Deputies oppose the Government and are in favor of war, but a majority appears to be secured for an address which proposes to leave the question to the wisdom of Prince Milan. The Government is most active in its efforts to maintain peace, and immediate danger is consequently somewhat lessened.

Servian Territory Violated.

The Belgrade papers say that the Turks have again violated Servian territory. The Servian armament is continuing.

Christians Persecuted.

BELGRADE, September 16.—According to Servian reports, the Turks have persecuted Christians at Orachova, in Northern Bosnia. Six Christians were massacred.

Fortifying the Danube.

LONDON, September 17.—The Daily Telegraph's Vienna correspondent reports that Turkey is placing her forces in Bulgaria on a war footing, and preparing the fortresses on the Danube for any emergency.

FRANCE.

Conference Between Thiers and Gambetta.

PARIS, September 16.—Thiers and Gambetta held a lengthy conference yesterday, and agreed on common programme for the next session of the French National Assembly and the next election.

Republicans Intimidated.

VERSAILLES, September 16.—The Republicans, mindful of the prompt dismissal of Admiral de Ronciere Le Noury, restrained from questioning or criticising the Government at the sitting of the Permanent Committee to-day. The session passed without debate whatever.

The Question of Peace.

PARIS, September 17.—The Bien Public, the organ of Thiers, admits the correctness of the following: During Thiers' interview with Gortschakoff, the conversation related to the chances favorable to the maintenance of peace. Gortschakoff especially feared France would yield to the clerical reaction. He thought the solution of the Eastern question would not be immediate, but would eventually consist in the granting of an autonomy to Bosnia and Herzegovina, under Archduke Salvador or Server Pasha.

LONDON, September 16.—The steamship Necar, for New York, took out £28,000 sterling in specie.

John Eatmistie, an East India merchant, of Leaden Hall street, has failed. His liabilities are about $500,000.

Admiralty Cruise.

LONDON, September 16.—The Globe has reason to believe that the Lords of Admiralty contemplate a cruise for the inspection of Government works at Malta. The navy yards of France, and probably those of Italy will also be visited.

The Earl of Huntingdon is dead.

The Foot and Mouth Disease

among the cattle is spreading, but only a small proportion of deaths.

The Difficulties with China.

LONDON, September 16.—A telegram from Shanghai says the negotiations relative to the Yunnan outrage are not concluded. The only points settled are that a special embassy will be sent to London, and the Chinese will institute a commission of inquiry into the outrage in Yunnan.

SPAIN.

The Papal Nuncio's Circular.

MADRID, September 16.—The circular of the Papal Nuncio is commented on by all the Spanish papers. Great surprise is expressed that the circular was sent without the permission of the King. The Epoca asserts that another circular, equally important, has been issued. A Cabinet council has been called for to morrow, exclusively for the consideration of the Nuncio's circular.

The Cortes.

The Correspondencia does not believe that the Spanish Cortes will meet this year.

Escaped to France.

MADRID, September 16.—It is rumored that the Carlist General Savalles has entered France.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Annuities to Bishops.

PERNAMBUCO, September 16.—It is believed that an imperial decree granting annuities to the Bishops and Governors of dioceses will be published on Friday. The Government has determined to pursue a conciliatory policy on the question of religion.

Explanation Accepted.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs has replied to the note recently received from the Buenos Ayres Government. He has accepted the explanations concerning all differences between the two countries, excepting the Paraguayan boundary question, upon which no decision has as yet been arrived at.

FIJI ISLANDS.

The Native Population Dying from Measles.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 16.—By the arrival of the bark J. L. Seaver news from the Fiji Islands has been received. A fearful epidemic prevails among the natives in the form of measles. One-third of the native population died from its effects in about four months' time. The disease is said to have come from an English man-of-war which visited the islands some months since. The natives think the disease was brought there by the whites to exterminate them. Many natives were becoming civilized, but when the disease began to spread they became frantic. They will likely use whites roughly. The disease will kill the entire native population in a short time if unchecked.

INDIA.

The Prince of Wales' Visit.

BOMBAY, September 16.—It has been heretofore asserted that Nizam, of Hyderabad, refuses to accept the Viceroy's invitation to meet the Prince of Wales on his approaching visit to India. This has caused much comment in the English and Indian press. The Times of India, however, announces definitely that Nizam has accepted the invitation.

THE INDIAN COUNCIL.

A Cheyenne Thirsting for the Blood of a Commissioner.

ANOTHER MASSACRE POSSIBLE.

The Indians to Select the Place for Holding the "Talk."

A Promise to be Fulfilled.

RED CLOUD AGENCY, VIA CHEYENNE, WYOMING, September 16.—Yesterday the Commission received information from Washington to the effect that orders had been issued for the purchase of the one hundred horses promised last summer by the sub-commission to Louis Richard and young Man-Afraid-of-his-Horses for services rendered the Commission by them in going among the wild Northern Indians and inducing them to attend the council. This news was very gratifying to the Indians here, as the failure of the Government heretofore to make good that promise has interfered somewhat with the progress of the present negotiations. The duty performed by the two Indians in question was of a very dangerous character indeed, and their lives were constantly in danger. They traveled in the round trip seven hundred miles, and in the course of the tour made presents to these hostile Indians of about fifty ponies. They were accompanied by seventy-four young Indians belonging to this agency.

A rumor was in circulation yesterday to the effect that a Cheyenne Indian had expressed a determination to kill a Commissioner upon the opening of the council. It has created considerable excitement among the Commissioners, and it is thought among outsiders here that this is the principal reason for postponing the council until next Friday, it having been generally understood it would begin to-day. Major Saville was instructed by the Commission to hunt up the Indian who had made this report, but he has been unable to find him. The impression is gaining ground that the story of the proposed assassination is a canard.

The Commission is evidently composed of a rather sensible body of men. Senator Allison, of Iowa, chairman, is well known as a Republican politician. General A. G. Lawrence, of Newport, Rhode Island, was a Union General during the war, losing his right arm and receiving three other wounds in the assault upon Fort Fisher. Colonel G. P. Beauvais, of St. Louis, has spent thirty-three years of his life as an Indian trader and rancheman on the plains. He talks the Indian language fluently, and is a man of good judgment. Colonel A. Comingo, of Independence, Mo., is an ex-member of Congress, and now a prominent member of the bar. W. H. Ashby, of Beatrice, Nebraska, was an officer in a Confederate regiment from Missouri during the war. He is now practicing law, and endorses Republican sentiments. Rev. S. D. Hinman has been laboring as a missionary among the Missouri river Indians for eighteen years past. He is thoroughly in their confidence, and fully understands their habits and customs.

The Commission has not accomplished much thus far, but have had difficulties to contend with that cannot be properly appreciated except by persons on the ground.

J. B. Terrell, of the Treasury Department, has been here, taking notes in a quiet sort of a way the past week. He leaves to-morrow for Cheyenne. Viscount Lewishaw, of England, arrived yesterday to attend the council.

Forty thousand dollars worth of annuity goods were received at this agency yesterday. Some degree of uneasiness is felt on account of Dr. Saville, who went out early yesterday morning to count the lodges of the Cheyenne camp, eight miles from here, preparatory to issuing rations. He was to have returned last night, but up to the time these dispatches are sent (9 A. M.) he has not put in an appearance. To-night the Indians are to have a grand feast and dance near the agency stockade.

Gen. Terry arrived to-day, having left Cheyenne on Sunday afternoon. After his arrival Spotted Tail, Two Strike and ten other chiefs came up from Shadron creek, where Spotted Tail's and the Missouri river Indians are now encamping, and held a conference with the Commissioners, and as they still insist upon the selection of council grounds, the Commissioners, after a talk among themselves, agreed to humor them, and so appointed as a committee to select a place for holding the council, Spotted Tail, Two Strike, and Swift Bear on the part of the Brule Indians, or Spotted Tail's band, and Red Cloud, Red Dog and Young-Man-Afraid-of-his-Horses on the part of the Ogallalahs and Red Cloud's band, thus hoping to settle the jealousy on this subject heretofore evinced by these respective bands. The Commissioners stipulated that the ground must be near enough to this agency to allow them to go out to the place of the council in the morning and return to this agency by night, that it must be selected at once, so that the council may begin on Friday, the 17th. To the latter stipulation Spotted Tail replied that the Missouri River Indians were very anxious to return home before snow comes, and want the council held as soon as possible.

This is the first time Spotted Tail has been here since the day the Commissioners arrived, ten days ago, which fact had considerable to do in delaying the council, as he has also kept the Missouri River Indians from coming, they having encamped in the vicinity of his agency. He appeared to-day to be in excellent spirits, and said if the other Indians would not come to him in selecting a place for the council he would go to them. He is a younger man than Red Cloud, less surly, and has great influence with the Indians at large. The Commissioners feel highly elated at the fact of his coming to see them and the willing, accommodating spirit manifested by him in the talk. They also congratulate themselves upon the arrival of Gen. Terry, who is a man of superior judgment, besides having the advantage of having participated in the treaty of 1868. Upon reaching the agency to-day he was recognized and heartily greeted by a large number of Indians who met him at the treaty.

Several thousand Indians gathered about the agency to-day in consequence of their giving what is known as the "Omaha dance," which is a great ceremonial with them. The dance was held inside the stockade.

THE PRESIDENCY.

Letter from Charles Francis Adams—He Thinks He Has His Hands Full Already.

NEW YORK, September 16.—Charles Francis Adams has written the following letter to a gentleman in Brooklyn, who sent him a copy of the Times of that city containing an article in which was said: "We have hopes that an aroused public spirit will find some way of making itself potent in the nominating convention next year, and that Mr. Adams may be called from his retirement at Quincy to restore to the Presidency its ancient dignity and legislative influence."

"QUINCY, September 5.

"MY DEAR SIR: I cannot but be deeply moved by voluntary expressions of esteem, which I occasionally find in newspapers in reference to myself. I trust that they may not have the effect of turning my head, or making me think of myself better than I ought to think. With regard to the suggestion made in the article to which you call my attention, I am sure it would be very agreeable to me to undertake the work, but I have, I fear, already on my hands quite as much as I can dare hope to accomplish during my term of life, approaching so near the three score and ten prescribing its limit of usefulness, as I do I shall have to make haste, or run great risk of leaving matters in confusion. It is for this reason that I have been, perhaps, too indifferent to the wishes of many who have desired to have me called again into public life. I see nothing there, just now, which promises happy results within a short time. Meanwhile, I am steadily releasing myself from the responsibility, if not of writing a history, at least of putting out of reach of accident the valuable materials for writing it which have been placed in my hands, or which I have myself gathered in my own career. I doubt whether I could be made more useful to the world in any other way. Pray excuse me for this egotism, and believe me very truly yours,

"CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS."

STORM IN THE SOUTH.

The Shores of the Gulf of Mexico Inundated by the Tide.

NEW ORLEANS, September 16.—The gales yesterday in the gulf extended from Key West to the Rio Grande. The tide at Atachafala Bay was reported the highest for eighteen years. There is no telegraph communication with Galveston to-day. The steamship St. Mary, from Havana for Galveston, put into Southwest Pass with the loss of her smoke stack and the wheel house stove in.

ST. LOUIS, MO., September 16.—A special from Galveston, Texas, to the Globe-Democrat says that a large part of the city was under water last night, the effects of unusual high winds from the northeast. No great damage was done, but some of the wharves were somewhat injured and a considerable number of people were obliged to vacate their houses. The railroad bridge still stood, but whether it would continue to resist the great pressure against it was not known.

Destroyed Distillery Books.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 16.—Charles Jost, proprietor of the Antioch Distillery, seized by the revenue officials last month, made an affidavit to-day before the Supervisor of Internal Revenue that the private books of the distillery had been destroyed, this destruction of books causing serious difficulty to Special Treasury Agent Clark in his investigation, and the sooner Hawley arrives here the better.

SECOND EDITION

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Recent Disturbances in Mississippi.

Letter from the Attorney General to Governor Ames.

WASHINGTON, September 16, 1875.

Affairs in Mississippi.

Senator Brice, of Mississippi, and one of his associates called upon the Attorney General to-day, and stated that they had telegraphed to Governor Ames that they were satisfied with what the Attorney General had done in regard to applications from the Governor for the interference of General Grant. They again requested the publication of the Attorney General's letter to Governor Ames, and President Grant consenting, it is made public. The letter is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., September 14, 1875.—Governor Ames, Jackson, Miss.—This hour I have had a dispatch from the President. I can best convey to you his ideas by extracts from his dispatch: "The whole public are tired out with these annual autumnal outbreaks in the South, and the great majority are ready now to condemn any interference on the part of the Government. I heartily wish that peace and good order may be restored without issuing the proclamation, but if they are not, the proclamation must be issued; but if it is, I shall instruct the commander of the forces to have no child's play. If there is a necessity for military interference, there is justice in such interference as to deter evil-doers. I would suggest the sending of a dispatch or letter by a private messenger to Governor Ames, urging him to strengthen his own position by exhausting his own resources in restoring order before he receives Government aid. He might accept assistance offered by the citizens of Jackson and elsewhere. Governor Ames and his advisers can be made perfectly secure. As many of the troops now in Mississippi as he deems necessary may be sent to Jackson. If he is betrayed by those who offer assistance he will be in a position to defeat their ends and punish them."

You see by this the mind of the President, with which I and every member of the Cabinet who has been consulted are in full accord. You see the difficulties. You see the responsibilities which you assume. We cannot understand why you do not strengthen yourself in the way the President suggests, nor do we see why you do not call the Legislature together and obtain from them whatever powers and money and arms you need. The Constitution is explicit that the executive of a State can call upon the President for aid in suppressing domestic violence only when the Legislature cannot be convened, and the law expressly says in case of an insurrection in any State against the Government thereof it shall be lawful for the President, on application of the Legislature of such State, or of the executive when the Legislature cannot be convened, to call, and it is the plain meaning of the Constitution and laws, when taken together, that the executive of a State may call upon the President for military aid to quell domestic violence only in case of an insurrection in any State against the Government thereof when the Legislature cannot be called together. You make no suggestions even that there is any insurrection against the Government of the State, or that the Legislature would not support you in any measures you might propose to preserve the public order.

I suggest that you take all lawful means and all needed measures to preserve the peace by the force in your own State, and let the country see that the citizens of Mississippi, who are largely favorable to good order, and who are largely Republican, have the courage and manhood to fight for their State rights and to destroy the bloody ruffians who murder the innocent and unoffending freedmen. Everything is in readiness. Be careful to bring yourself strictly within the Constitution and the laws, and if there is such resistance to your State authority as you cannot by all means at your command suppress, the President will swiftly aid you in crushing lawless traitors to human rights.

Telegraph me on receipt of this, and state explicitly what you need.

Very respectfully yours,

EDWARDS PIERREPONT, Att'y Gen.

The Red Cloud Investigation.

Mr. Smith, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, was before the Red Cloud Commission to-day. He was interrogated concerning the Indian Department, including agents. These, he said, are designated by various religious societies to the Secretary of the Interior, and are nominated to the Senate by the President for confirmation. The Board of Indian Commissioners have nothing to do with their appointment, but if they see anything wrong in the conduct of agents they make it known to the proper authority, and may recommend changes. The Commissioners had made no complaint against Mr. Saville, agent for the Red Cloud Indians.

In response to a question, Commissioner Smith said he had heard nothing about charges against any member of the Commission, except what was contained in a previous statement.

NEW YORK DEMOCRACY.

State Convention at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., September 16.—The Democratic State Convention met at Weiting Hall. Every seat was occupied. There could not have been less than 2,500 people in the hall, and many were unable to get inside. There was a delay in getting the Convention to order in consequence of the bad arrangements for distributing the tickets to the delegates and others. The State Committee held a protracted morning session, keeping a densely packed crowd about their doors for hours, clamoring for tickets, and pushing, crowding and growling. It was some time after noon when the delegates had all entered the hall. A military band occupied the gallery. Allen Beach, Chairman of the State Central Committee, called the Convention to order without preliminary remarks at 11:25, and nominated Daniel McGone, of St. Lawrence, temporary Chairman, which was agreed to unanimously.

The usual committees were then appointed and the Convention took a recess till four o'clock.

The Tammany delegation was admitted, but all contestants were invited to seats on the floor.

The Convention re-assembled at 7:30 P. M., and Judge H. Sturges was chosen permanent chairman, with Vice Presidents from each district. Judge Sturgess addressed the Convention.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That hereafter the State Committee shall in all cases of contested seats admit as sitting members those only who present certificates from sources recognized as regular by the last preceding State Convention; such members shall participate in all proceedings of the Convention except as to contested seats, until the Convention shall decide upon the case.

At twenty minutes before nine o'clock the Convention adjourned till nine o'clock to-morrow.

Speech by Morrissey.

At a meeting of the Committee on Contested Seats, Morrissey addressed the committee for the Eleventh District, making quite a lengthy speech, and Kelly responded. Morrissey's speech was an able one, and when a vote was taken on the district it stood ten for the admission of the Morrissey delegation to twelve against. The vote on the other New York districts stood eighteen to five against admitting the contestants.

The Chief Interest of the Day has been centered in contested seat cases. Nothing new has transpired concerning the ticket. The candidates apparently having strength enough to secure nominations are Jno. Bigelow, Secretary of State, Charles S. Fairchild or Senator R. A. Parmenter, Attorney General.

The Platform

will favor a return to specie payments, endorsement of the movement on behalf of canal reform, honesty in the administration of Government affairs, opposition to a Presidential third term, and the reiteration of former declarations in Democratic State Conventions.

SAN FRANCISCO FINANCES.

A New Bank to be Established—Meeting of the Pacific Stock Exchange.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 16—6:15 P. M.—To-day reports were current on the street that Lazard & Freeres had decided to establish a new bank. On inquiry at the office of the firm information was received to the effect that it has been the design of the Lazards for some years to abandon the business of importing and jobbing dry goods and engage in banking. Immediately after the suspension of the Bank of California cable telegraphic correspondence was opened with influential English and French capitalists, and arrangements concluded for the organization of a banking house. One of the members of the firm is on the eve of taking his departure for Europe to hold a consultation with foreign capitalists as regards the resources of wealth, paid-up capital and general influence. The new institution will stand second to no bank on the coast.

There was a meeting of the Pacific Stock Exchange this afternoon, at which the resolution imposing a fine on members for private trading was rescinded. A resolution to resume regular transactions to-morrow was debated at length, but no vote was taken. The board adjourned till 10 A. M. to-morrow. There is much feeling among brokers in favor of resumption by both the big boards, and it is believed the Pacific Exchange at least will soon re-open.

UTICA, N. Y., September 16.—The Society of the Army of the Cumberland visited Trenton Falls this morning in a body. The remaining part of the day to 4 P. M. was spent in riding about the city, visiting the State Asylum and other places of interest. Rain interfered somewhat with the grand military parade and review, but the programme was carried out. President Grant, General Sherman and other officers lunched with Mrs. Horatio Seymour. Vice President Wilson, Governor Tilden and General Sherman reviewed the procession of military, police and fire departments.

The New York Central Fast Mail Train.

CLEVELAND, September 16.—The fast mail train arrived here from New York this evening on schedule time. A large crowd of citizens was at the depot and welcomed it with hearty cheers. The train, when it arrived, consisted of four mail and two palace cars, a third car being attached here to accommodate the increased number of passengers. This made a train of seven cars. Getting supper, switching, &c., delayed its departure until sixteen minutes after card time. At Huron an extra stop for water was made, and at Sandusky, sixty miles from Cleveland, the train was twenty-three minutes late. Between Sandusky and Millbury, a distance of forty miles, the train made three stops, crossed the long bridge over Sandusky Bay at a slow rate of speed, and passed Millbury on time, having made a run of forty miles in fifty-seven minutes, including stoppages.

Escape from Indians.

DENVER, Col., September 16.—Prof. Gardner and Robt. Adams, Jr., reached here this evening, six days after the Indian fight. They, with five others, returned to rescue Messrs Holman and Dallas, who had been left some weeks before to guard a supply camp on Dolores river. They rode three hundred miles in eight days, hoping to reach their comrades before the Indians should discover them. The men were found safe and well, and the whole party again successfully retreated from among the hostile bands, reaching Lagnache on the 11th. In four weeks they rode 800 miles. Mr. Jackson's photographic division reached the La Platta camp safely on the 5th.

Defalcation in Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, September 16.—Rumors were rife to day to the effect that a defalcation amounting to $60,000 had been discovered in the accounts of the Louisville Gas Company. A disposition to keep the matter quiet is manifested, and all that can be learned is that Garnett D. Marshall, late cashier, is the guilty party. It is understood a settlement by which Marshall transfers personal and real estate property to the Gas Company has been effected, and no prosecution will be made. Marshall is well known, and the fact of his defalcation occasions general excitement and speculation.

The Episcopal Convention at Chicago.

CHICAGO, September 16.—The Episcopal Convention to-day adopted resolutions reported by the committee on Dr. De Koven's letter, also a resolution directing the delegates to the next General Convention to vote against any Convention conferring on standing committees the power to reject those who had been elected Bishop because such committees might consider them unsound in the faith. The salary of the Bishop was fixed at $5,000 per annum.

The Maine Election.

BANGOR, September 16.—The latest returns from the Fourth Congressional district give Plaisted, Republican, about 1,000 majority.

"EXCUSES."

The Revival Campaign Opened in America—Mr. Moody's Sermon on "Excuses."

Messrs. Moody, Sankey, Bliss and Whittle, the American evangelists, are holding meetings at Northfield, Massachusetts. Great interest has thus far been manifested, the people flocking in from all the surrounding towns in large numbers. The noticeable feature of the meetings is that the people come early, beginning to gather an hour or more before the hour appointed for the service. When Mr. Moody came in, on one occasion, and had laid his overcoat aside, he sat a moment in his plain frock coat, but moments are precious, and jumping up he said they would sing a little while they were coming in. So the hymn,

I heard the Savior say,
Thy strength indeed is small, was started up by the congregation, and verse after verse of it was sung. Soon Mr. Sankey, Professor Bliss and Colonel Whittle entered, and Mr. Moody stepped forward and opened the meeting by requesting Mr. Sankey to sing his song of "Wondrous Love" and the people to join in the chorus. Mr. Sankey sat at the cabinet organ and sang the simple song in his full, free, clear voice with its very telling and original modulation, his face all the time beaming with the love of which he sang.

MR. MOODY ON EXCUSES.

After singing "Almost Persuaded," by Professor Bliss, Mr. Moody said he wished to speak especially upon the verse in Luke xiv.—"They all with one accord began to make excuses." He said:—I want to call your attention to one clause in this verse—that is the way they made excuses; they didn't have any, and so they made one. I never met a man who wasn't a Christian who hadn't an excuse, and if he didn't have one he made one. Now, I want to call your attention to the excuses offered by these three men. The first one—I don't know what his name was, it may have been Mr. Levi—the messenger comes to him and says:—"Mr. Levi, the King is going to have a great feast in honor of the marriage of his son and wants you to come." Mr. Levi said:—"Tell your master I should like to go, but I have bought some land to-day and must go to look at it." Why didn't he look at it before he bought it? If a man here in Northfield should buy a piece of land without first seeing it you would call him green. His land wouldn't run away; he could look at it after he had been at the feast. His excuse was not that he wanted to go and get a deed for it, but that he had bought a piece of land and must go and look at. It was a downright lie. Now let us look at one of the other's:—"I have bought five yoke of oxen and can't come." Well, I declare, the third had a worse excuse than either of the others. He had just taken a young wife and couldn't go. Why, who likes to go to a marriage feast better than a young bride? Why couldn't he take his young bride with him? They were all downright lies. Now I have never found a man in all my travels who had a better excuse than these three men. You can just bundle them up and label them as downright lies. That is what the devil does. He just gets them into this cradle of excuses and rocks them to sleep. No man can give a good excuse why he does not come to church. I want to take up some of

of the present age. For the last 1800 years the wisdom of the world has been contriving to invent better excuses and have failed. Their excuses are not as good as those the three men used in the Scriptures. One of the popular excuses of to-day is the dear old Bible itself. They say that book keeps me out of the kingdom; there are a great many things in that book that I don't understand, that are dark and mysterious. Because they don't understand the book from back to back they don't believe it. Now, of this class of skeptics I have never found one who has read the Bible from back to back. They read a psalm, then they turn over and read a short chapter or two in Jeremiah; read a chapter or two of gospels, picking out those verses that none but the regenerated mind can understand, shut it up and say, "I don't believe it." Now, suppose I send my little boy to school to-morrow; he comes home at night and I say:

"Well, my son, have you learned reading, writing, arithmetic, philosophy and astronomy?"

"Why, father, what are you talking about? I have been all day trying to learn A, B, C."

"What? don't know anything about history, arithmetic, philosophy or astronomy? I'll take you out of that school to-day. You shall not go there any more."

Now, if I did this what would you say? Why you would say, "Moody has gone crazy." Well, that is the way some people in the churches read the Bible. There's a man over there in the audience who says, "That's not my excuse. I believe my Bible; but I know of some men in the church that are a good deal meaner than some out of it." So do I; but what has that got to do with it? I will admit that there are hypocrites in the Church. One of the disciples chosen by Jesus proved to be as black hearted a hypocrite as ever lived. "I don't want to associate with hypocrites." We don't ask you to associate with hypocrites, but to come to God and follow Christ. I will show you one hundred hypocrites out of the Church for every one you will find in it. If you don't want to associate with hypocrites in eternity come to the feast of the Lamb. A man over there in that carriage says, "My excuse is that I believe in election. If I am to be saved I shall be saved." Now why don't you apply the doctrine of election right here on your farms in Northfield? Don't cut your hay or gather your grain; if the Lord wants you to have it, it will be cut. Don't put it into your barn; if it is decreed to be put in it will be. Don't take your grain to the mill; if it is decreed that Mr. Webster shall grind it he will grind it. Don't plant any trees nor raise any apples; if God decrees it you will get them. If you are sick and the doctor gives you medicine don't put it into your mouth; throw it into the stove. You will get well just as quick if God has decreed. But God says, "Whosoever will, let him come." Paul's letter on election was written to the Church, and not to the world. "Whosoever will be saved let him come. Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely." That passage has forever settled the doctrine of election for me. It is all in the heart. If you will you will, if you won't you won't. The other excuses mentioned were, "That we are not fit to come;" "That we can't believe;" "That it is too good to be true." We must work out our salvation, but cannot till it is given to us. When I left Northfield at seventeen years of age and went to live in Boston I was looking every day for a letter from my sister, and at last one came, and she wrote cautioning me against pickpockets, who, she had heard, were plenty in the city. I thought I should have to get something in my pockets before any one could get anything out. So salvation must be given to us before we can work it out. Who would write such a letter as this:—

NORTHFIELD, Mass.

TO THE KING OF HEAVEN:

While attending a meeting in the street at Northfield, Sunday, September 12, 1875, I received a pressing invitation from one of your servants to be present at the marriage ceremony of your only begotten Son. I pray thee have me excused.

Who would come up here and take his pen to-night and put his name to that. Is there a man in this town who would come forward and put his name to such a note? And are you not refusing His invitation in rejecting Christ? Will any of you sign this?

NORTHFIELD, Sept. 12, 1875.

To the KING OF KINGS:

While attending a meeting in the street at Northfield one pleasant Sabbath day I received an invitation from one of your servants to be present at the marriage feast of your only begotten Son and hasten to reply. By the grace of God I will be present.

Who will put their names to that? My friends, are you not willing to say to-night, "By the grace of God I will sign it?"

Bismarck's Sons.

Bismark's sons do not give much promise of adding lustre to the name which their father has elevated to a high place on the roll of Germany's great ones. Common report represents them as a pair of very graceless scamps, who appear to value the position which their father's greatness gives them only as a means of gratifying a base and tyrannical nature. Nor do they give any indication of possessing mental powers which, with experience and cultivation, might redeem the excesses of youth, as in case of the elder Bismarck. On the contrary, they are represented to be so dull and unpromising that the most sanguine admirers of their father entertain little hopes of their perpetuating his fame. All of which furnishes another instance of the rarity of the transmission of conspicuous talents from sire to son.

PERSONAL.

THOMAS NAST and his wife are traveling in the Northwest.

A STATUE will be erected at the capital of Texas to the memory of General Sam Houston.

ROBERT E. LEE, son of the late General of that name, will return to Virginia from Europe in a few weeks.

MISS AMY SEDGWICK, the well-known English actress, has had the misfortune to lose her husband, Mr. Charles Pemberton, who died on the 13th ult.

MISS EMILY FAITHFUL is giving readings and dramatic performances in England, with a little company, of which Miss Elia Dietz, of New York city, is a member.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT drives through the streets of Newport in an English drag, with a man seated upon the outside with a trumpet, which he occasionally sounds. This is an English idea.

THE Standing Committee of the Episcopal diocese of Baltimore, Md., have unanimously consented to the consecration of the Rev. Dr. Eccleston, bishop-elect of Iowa. Baltimore was the former home of Dr. Eccleston.

NIELSON'S husband, Lee, ran away from her the other day, leaving her ill in Paris. It seems to be the luck of all clever or successful women to marry fellows whose exhaustive worthlessness is only equaled by their inimitable meanness.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL JEWELL has ordered the new fast postal cars to be named after noted Governors and ex-Governors of States. Thus one will be named "Gov. Tilden" and one "Gov. Allen." Among the other names selected are Governors Dix, Morgan, Hartranft, Gaston, Oglesby, Morton, Hendricks, Hays, Kirkwood and Brough. The Pennsylvania road declines to name the cars after Governors, for fear of political animosity.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL JEWELL met with a little adventure while at Litchfield, Conn., the other day. After taking a row on the lake he endeavored to land. He had one foot on shore, when the boat slid out on the water and compelled the General to see how much space he could measure between his two feet. He was soon forced to abandon the attempt and drop into the water, from which he was rescued in a damp state. Since the above was in type we have seen a contradiction of the story.

IT is generally thought that Edmund Ruffin, of Virginia, fired the first gun at Fort Sumter. The Rev. John Douglas, of Steele Creek, tells the Southern Home that this is a mistake. He was residing at that time on James Island and heard the first gun. It was fired by Captain George James from a little sand battery on James Island. He (Captain James) was killed afterwards at Gettysburg. The second gun was fired by Lieutenant Wade Hampton Gibbes, also from James Island. The third gun was fired by Mr. Ruffin from Morris Island. The fourth gun was from Sullivan's Island, and the fifth was from the Iron Battery. We don't think there is much credit attached to the matter, but—"Give the devil his due."

AN erroneous impression has long prevailed in regard to the terms of President Polk's will. It has been supposed that at the death of his widow, Mrs. Sarah Polk, Polk Place would come into the possession of the State of Tennessee, and it has been suggested that a mausoleum be erected on the grounds to contain the remains of the three Presidents from that State. It appears that it was Mr. Polk's desire to secure his homestead in the possession of relatives, and by the terms of his will the property is to be held in trust by the State of Tennessee, the Governor of which is to designate some person to occupy the premises, always preferring the nearest of kin by the name of Polk. The will, it is believed, was made while Mr. Polk was President, and contains some curious provisions.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 116¼

THE Democratic Convention of New York organized at Syracuse yesterday. The temporary chairman made a hard money speech, and was applauded. This points to a hard money platform. Tilden's name called out the strongest expression of enthusiasm.

THE New York World, an able Democratic paper, says Allen and Cary, in Ohio, have "gone into the business of bug-feeding for the Western Republicans." So have Wallace and the Post, out this way. They have found their true status in becoming bug-feeders.

WE invite the attention of our readers to the letters of our Colorado correspondent, the second of which appears in our columns this morning. They are elegantly written, and give pleasant descriptions of scenery, in that far away region. They are among the best pen pictures of that region we ever remember to have seen.

THE Chronicle talks very sensibly on the monetary question, in reply to the Post. It favors the view the GAZETTE has so long urged—that resumption be left to the natural laws of trade, and, in the meantime, the prosperity of the country be promoted. It does not favor the senseless views of the Erie Convention that greenbacks are money, but urges the sentiment expressed in the Lancaster platform that the currency be kept equal to the demands of trade, and resumption left to regulate itself.

THE influence of the politicians on the Third Term issue is again attracting the attention of the New York press. They claim that Grant is the coming man, on a hard money platform. Such is the possible drift of affairs,—but we have heard it loudly hinted that this idea is to be given effect by the Democratic party. When we consider their readiness at topsy-turvying, it is far from unlikely that they will turn round on that question. To be for hard money one year, soft money the next, and hard money the third year is not a strange performance for the Democracy.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS is drawn out, by a newspaper paragraph, to say that he is not a zealous candidate for a Presidential nomination, preferring to employ the balance of his life in putting historical materials into shape. This is wisely said. Mr. Adams filled the very important position of Minister to England, during Lincoln's Presidency, and knew certain phases of the inside history of the war that were known to no other American. His pure character would recommend him to the people, but we do not presume it would be agreeable to him to be a candidate.

THE virtuous, half-horrified Democratic press is a rather amusing object just now. Three years ago, they were pouring on Hartranft, a flood of lying calumny; but now, they are amazed that the public record of their candidates should be mentioned. They call this "abuse." Journals that are entirely disinterested speak more harshly than have we. The New York Herald describes the Erie Convention as composed of a "troupe of tramps and vagabonds." It is evident that this very class in the Convention nominated Piolette, and they knew their man. We do not see how such a character,—a "pincher" and "rooster,"—can be abused.

THE attempt is being made to create the impression that the currency is the only issue for which the people care at the present. We estimate the intelligence of the public more highly than this. In the first place, they know that this is a State canvass, members of Congress and National officials not being elected till next year. Hence the currency issue is only an incidental feature of the canvass, State questions being paramount. In the next place, it is well known to the people that forty-seven Democrats voted for the resumption act, and only sixteen against it, thus fastening this on the Democratic party, so far as it had power to affect it. The people are not to be deceived by Democratic professions and promises, made at the last moment. It is, has been, and will be, a hard money party.

THE whirligig of time makes many changes, some agreeable, other disagreeable. In the list of pleasant changes, it affords us pleasure to chronicle the election of Rev. Dr. W. E. McLaren as Bishop of Illinois. The gentleman named was formerly a resident of this city, and was connected with the editorial department of the GAZETTE. This was after he had graduated from Washington and Jefferson College, and while he was a student in Allegheny Theological Seminary. He was regarded at the time as an able young man, and his after career has justified his expectations then entertained of him. His present elevation to the Bishopric of Illinois is a fitting compliment, in return for the valuable service rendered by him as rector of Trinity Church, Cleveland. His vigor of mind, and health of body, will enable him to render very effective service in his new and extended field of labor.

THE Eastern press are now clamoring for the Red Cloud Investigating Commission to go home. They have had enough of it. They charge that it has not touched bottom, forgetting that Messrs. Marsh and Welsh are the bottom of the affair, and this has been partially touched, by securing the evidence of Marsh. Welsh could not be reached. The misfortune is, that Marsh really offered but one substantial item of evidence, which has been explained by Commissioner Smith. He says Smith seemed unwilling to hear his complaints; and Smith gives as a reason that he had heard and investigated the same complaints, which originated with Red Cloud, so often, that he had grown tired of them, and probably manifested his weariness to Marsh. This is quite as we suspected. Hence the whole affair, so far as Marsh is concerned, comes to this: He repeated the threadbare Red Cloud stories, and was not listened to as respectfully as though his complaints were fresh and new. Only this, and nothing more. As for Welsh, he did not appear.

WE speak elsewhere of the sensitiveness of the Democratic press over the severe things it is necessary to say of Pershing and Piolette, in order that the people may know the truth of them. But the spectacle of Judge Pershing sacrificing his hard-money principles for the sake of party, moves the St. Paul Pioneer-Press to this energetic declaration: "What earthly confidence can people of any degree of intelligence above that of a gorilla be supposed to have in political leaders who set so little value upon convictions approved by their reason and conscience that they are willing to sacrifice them without a moment's hesitation to 'the policy of the party?' Why, such utter moral and mental slavery as this to the mandate of a party convention would be degradation to a dog. And no honorable man can contemplate the self-debasement implied in this abject surrender of manhood and self-respect to the capricious dictates of a fortuitous concourse of ninnies and demagogues without unutterable loathing." Truth is not abuse.

THE specie-resumption question has a problem in it that we have never seen satisfactorily worked out by the hard money people. It is,—how shall we get and keep enough gold to resume upon until the balance of trade is in our favor? Borrow, say they. Let us see. England has all told, $700,000,000 of specie,—$200,000,000 of which is kept as a reserve in the Bank of England, to float a currency circulation of $228,166,795. We would need $300,000,000,—or nearly one half of this amount to float our currency, once we put it on a gold basis. Does any one believe that so large a sum could be spared without seriously disturbing the English markets, and inducing an effort to draw it back? We do not need to argue that England has the power to draw this back, by means of the $1,000,000,000 United States bonds she holds. The Republican party gave the country the currency we now have, based on the faith of the nation, for home circulation. A number of vicious Democrats and muddle-headed Republicans passed the Resumption Act. Let this be repealed, and all is well.

THE Post thinks we deal harshly with Pershing,—in fact abuse him. We do not see it. We have spoken of him as a Copperhead,—does not his record prove it true? Did he not act with the Copperhead wing of his party during the war? When we properly characterize a man,—it is not abuse. The truth is, we have been exceedingly mild toward both him and Piolette. Pershing, while in the Legislature, opposed a Pennsylvania railroad bill till he was "retained" in the sum of $500. To oppose a bill, and then, after getting money, vote for it, fulfils all the conditions of a "pincher" and "rooster." We did not call him by these names. He helped to slaughter the Connellsville Railroad, thus assaulting the welfare of Allegheny county. He resisted the repeal of the law taxing real estate, thus fighting the farmers. We have not, heretofore, accused him of this. He voted against admitting colored people into street railway cars, and favored saddling the country with the rebel debt. Thus he was a sycophant, a paid tool, a copperhead, and the foe of the farmer. Piolette was really bribed for $400, but when he found the money was valueless, exposed his briber,—the whole operation being regarded as a "pinching" affair. Now these are facts. Are we to say that Pershing is a saint when we know him to have been a copperhead, or that Piolette is virtuous when this $400 affair sticks to him. The truth is, both were "pinchers," "roosters," and "copperheads,"—the terms being descriptive merely of acts of which both were guilty, and of characters which both sustained. Certainly Pennsylvania wants decent men for office.

MORALS OF BANKRUPTCY.

In a previous article on the merits and demerits of the bankrupt law, we incidentally referred to the moral side of the subject. We recur to this for more extended mention. The moral issues involved are those which, in a sense, are totally outside the legal workings of the statute, and touch only the moral obligations which rest upon those who avail themselves of the law. These moral obligations require, first, honest bankruptcy; second, a full disclosure and giving up of property to creditors; and third, as we think, the effort to make good debts not fully paid under the bankrupt act, provided this can be reasonably done. The law actually rests on a moral principle, which common honor requires men to hold sacred. Previous to its enactment, the creditor held the debtor at his mercy. He could cast him into prison, sell his household goods, and turn his family loose upon the world. There were creditors heartless enough to enforce this terrible penalty, at times, and under circumstances that were peculiarly distressing.

Humanity demanded that some relief should be afforded, and the power to imprison for debt was first destroyed, and then families were protected in a given amount of goods. Thus the first steps were in the interest of humanity, and were purely moral. The statute of bankruptcy carried this subject yet further. It was seen that men were unfortunate who were undeniably honest, and yet who, under failure, would suffer indescribably, and could not rally, if kept under the embarrassment of debt. Putting aside the purely economic idea, that to enable them to resume active business would contribute to the general prosperity of a community, there was a charitable phase to the subject, which led to an opportunity being given them to care for their families and relieve their misfortunes. Thus the law largely rests on humane, and hence moral considerations.

It is but frank to admit, however, that a feeling of profound disgust is springing up, because of the tendency to evade the spirit of its requirements. It is getting to be common for bankrupts to avail themselves of the provisions of the law in a manner that is palpably dishonest. An honest bankrupt is one who becomes such unavoidably, by misfortunes in business, or through causes beyond his control. He does not speculate with the law. To seize upon it after sequestrating money or property, as a deliberate method of avoiding the payment of debts, or as a means of forcing creditors to a compromise, is basely dishonest. And for the bankrupt to continue the same style of living, and to enjoy the same luxuries he did before, is a general evidence of the dishonesty of the entire proceeding. The spirit of the law imperatively requires the yielding up of property, fully, to creditors, and propriety demands that the bankrupt shall conform himself to his altered circumstances. Thus far, we presume, there are no differences of judgment.

Touching our third proposition there is much diversity of sentiment. It has been argued, and plausibly, that the bankrupt act is intended to adjust, and finally settle accounts, between debtor and creditor; and that where the debtor makes a full and honest concession to his creditors, gives honestly up all he has, the law balances the account, and that thence forward, neither law nor morals requires anything more. We admit the legal statement to be correct, but demur to the moral proposition. A debt grows out of the debtor receiving goods, property, or advantage, rated at and presumably worth a given sum. The intervention of a legal release from the payment of the full sum, does not fully discharge that debt; it merely puts it out of the power of the creditor to legally collect it. The full advantage of the service or property had been enjoyed, and the debt morally stands just the same as though no legal release had been conferred. The design of the law was not to satisfy a debt, but to save the unfortunate and insolvent debtor from embarrassment. Therefore, it remains in all its moral force, after the bankrupt act has been invoked, just as it was before. We fully admit that special considerations may modify or change this view, but we hold it to be generally correct. Also, prudential considerations may lead a person to care first for his family, but an honest man will not strain this privilege.

The operations of the bankrupt act have we fear, been unfortunate, in that it has served to weaken the moral sense of the people on this subject. It is undeniable that many reputedly Christian men avail themselves of the bankrupt act, under the idea that it gives them a clear moral release from debt. Once through, they regard old debts as wiped out, and deem it an injury or insult to be reminded that morally the debt still remains. Yet such is the fact; and with returning prosperity, those debts should be sacredly discharged, if reasonably possible. Of course, the dishonest and vicious element, which deliberately employs the bankrupt act to cheat creditors, and starts out afresh, only to cheat again by the same process, is not included in these remarks. These are the vultures that prey on business. The amazement is, that they obtain credit a second time; yet they often do by their very brazenness, and thus flourish in plenty, on money that belongs, often to the poor. If these could be caught, all would be well.

COLORADO.

The Charms of a Ramble Over the Mountains.

Some Peculiarities of the Land and People—The Attractions of Ranching—Stock Raising on a Grand Scale—Sports With the Rifle—The Wonderful Variety of Scenery in Colorado.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

DENVER, August 29, 1875.

When I bade you adieu yesterday, in my letter, my notes of travel had brought us as far as the Twin Lakes. We laid over one day at the Twin Lakes to rest our horses. It rained more or less all day, but we all went fishing and caught more than we could eat, although we neither caught nor saw any large fish. The next morning was Sunday. Some of our party went fishing. I didn't, because I understood there was a wonderfully fine view from the mountain in rear of the house. I climbed up, and the view, taking in both lakes, was certainly fine, but it began raining about the time I got up to the top, and I had to choose between going down or getting wet. We got away from here about one o'clock and drove during the afternoon back over the road by which we had come, to the dwelling on the Arkansas river of the toll-taker of the mountain road, and stayed there until Monday morning. All day Monday our course lay in the valley of the Arkansas, sometimes quite close to the stream, sometimes miles from it; generally over open, flat country, sometimes through groves or over hills. I never saw such a great variety of beautiful wild flowers, countless thousands of sweet briers, or wild roses, blue bells, clematis, primrose, cactuses, butter cups, and an infinite number of every shade and color, that I don't even know the names of. Riding, as we were, between two ranges of mountains, every one hundred yards we advanced gave us a total change in landscape, for mountains entirely change their physiognomy every time you look at them from a new position. Those at a great distance are nearly always enveloped in a purplish haze very pleasant to the eye, while those nearer have a dozen different shades; the dark green of the pine the black and scarred spots recently burned over, the light bright green of the aspen, different shades of red and gray rock, various colored wild grasses and flowers, and generally on high mountains fields of snow. These are the prevailing colors, but they are given in infinite variety by the inequalities of surface; every ravine or gorge, every prominent projecting point has its separate tint, and shifting or stationary clouds contribute to the effect,—some dark and lowering, others bright as silver, sometimes flying through the upper air just kissing the highest peaks as they rush past; sometimes apparently as fixed as the mountains and looking like part of the range; sometimes arranged at different points along the side of the range, projecting from the rocks like huge wings; at others assuming an infinite variety of forms, that can be made by a very slight effort of imagination to resemble walled cities, and castles, lovely statuary, frozen forests, or almost anything fancy could suggest.

The rolling surface of the valley has, of course, the prevailing yellow color, relieved by clumps of pinons, aspens, chicots and sage bushes, with an occasional patch of oats, barley, wheat or peas. Cattle without number roam about. Magpies, larks, doves, bluejays, blackbirds, and quantities of little grey birds, flitting and chirping, give life to the scene. The magpie is a beautiful bird, nearly as large as a crow. I never saw any in the States. There is also a beautiful variety of the blackbird, with yellow head and throat, that I never saw anywhere else.

San Luis Park.

About 3 P. M. we reached the crossing of the South Arkansas, some few miles above its confluence with the main river where the Puncho creek comes in. Our road here leaves the valley and climbs between the mountains that stand on either side of the Puncho Pass. The road is in good condition, being, as usual, a toll road. About five miles from the mouth of the canon, the road leaves the Puncho creek, makes a sharp turn to the left, and three or four more miles bring us in full view of the beautiful San Luis Park, a long, undulating plain, more than eighty miles long, from five to twenty miles wide, bounded on one side by the Saguache range, (Saguache is the Mexican way of spelling an Indian word meaning blue water, which sounds as if written Sah-watch.) On the other side by the Sangre de Christo (Spanish for Blood of Christ) range, one of the handsomest ranges in the territory. In the park, grazing is good almost up to the timber line. A great many small streams find their way from the mountains into the valley. Generally the grass is good for a long distance up the canons through which they flow; sometimes by following their channel up a mile or two you find a valley of several miles in width, with excellent grass and plenty of water, for a long distance. Such a stream is Kirber creek, where resides Mr. C., one of our party. He has some 3,500 acres of capital grazing and hay lands, surrounded by a first class substantial fence, which he owns, and besides this has on the hill sides and in the valley of streams tributary to Kirber creek, ten times as much more Government land, where his vast herds of cattle range and grow fat. We reached his place some sixty miles from breakfast about 8 P. M., as hungry and nearly as tired as our horses; but a good supper and warm bed soon cured that. Next morning we had time to look around. The house and all the outbuildings, though built of logs, are large, commodious and well adapted to their respective uses.

How Ranching is Conducted.

To give you an idea of how "ranching" is conducted I shall try to describe how Mr. C. manages his. In the first place he endeavors to arrange his fences in such a manner as to take in as much grazing land as possible, and leave as few places as possible where cattle can get out, without either breaking the fence or climbing very high mountains. Thus he saves much trouble experienced by those men (and they are quite numerous) who don't pretend to own or fence more than 60 to 320 acres, and allow their cattle to roam at will, trusting to Providence or luck to find them when wanted. With the exception of half a dozen cows for milking, the whole herd looks after itself, generally grazing on the valleys in the spring, and up the mountain sides when the sweet mountain grasses come up as summer advances. Nearly all the lower mountains or foothills are thickly grown over with pinons; among these and in the sheltered canons the cattle seek protection from the bleak winds of winter, going probably two or three times a week down to the valley for water. Generally snow never lies twenty-four hours consecutively so deep that the cattle cannot get at the dry grasses so that they get something to eat nearly every day; still they gradually get thinner and more thin as spring approaches, and a greater or less number of them generally die. If the snow should be deep for many days, whole herds would perish, but cattle men generally drive their herds from all places where this is likely to happen to some good winter range. Mr. C. has never had to do this. His losses have usually been very small, generally arising from some beast, weakened by a long winter, getting himself in the early spring stuck in some bog or quagmire, not having sufficient strength to extricate himself, and perishing there. Of course if his owner sees him before he dies every effort is made to get him out; generally, however, without success. Rancheros who, like Mr. C., have provided themselves with a few stacks of hay and will keep a lookout during the winter and drive up and feed cows with young calves and such weaker members of the herd as they may think need help, and in exceptional cases of long continued severe weather may, for a day or two, feed the whole herd, this, however, is very unusual.

Branding the Calves.

Mr. C. has about a dozen horses that he permits to come into the stable and eat hay every night during the winter. They always come up in very bad weather, but in fine winter weather, from choice, remain away days at a time. Every fall and spring comes a busy time for the stock growers; the entire herd must be collected and all calves branded. Generally from two or three to twenty or thirty proprietors, with their hired men, join in this work. All well mounted, they cover an immense area and drive to a certain point all the cattle they can find. When no more can be found or heard of they begin the work of separating or cutting out. Each man picks out all the full grown cattle bearing his brand and drives them to his own branding place; the calves all follow their mothers, thus fixing their ownership; generally, branding the young ones is a difficult and sometimes a perilous business, the animals being lassoed and held in an open corral during the operation. Mr. C., however, has arranged to avoid that by building several adjacent corrals large enough to hold his entire herd. Having once gotten them all corralled, he drives them through a narrow passage or chute, built of heavy fence logs, just wide enough for one animal to squeeze through; this is some forty or fifty feet long, and so arranged that a heavy bar may be thrust across at any point either before or behind the enclosed animal, confining him in a space so small that he can neither lie down, nor move three inches forwards, backwards or sideways; of course, it is very easy to thrust a branding iron between the rails, and the whole thing is done thoroughly, expeditiously and safely. At the further end of this passage a large gate is swung in such a manner that a man beyond the reach of hoofs and horns, can open it into different compartments of the corral, turning the cow to the one side, and sending her calf, let it follow never so closely, to the other. As soon as every calf has been conspicuously marked by his owner's mark burned into his hide, the herd is all turned loose for another half year. Every rancher has his own brand or mark recorded in court and has indisputable claim to every beast bearing it. All other cattle men know not only their own brands, but those of their neighbors, and where in a great grazing country like this they are on good terms with one another, report to each other whenever they see or hear of a stray. Several times while I was in the valley Mr. C. went outside of his fences with one of his men to look after strays and generally brought from fifteen to thirty head. The estimated increase of a herd of cattle thus managed is from sixty to eighty per cent. per annum. It is a very easy thing to calculate why so many men have prospered at the business in this Territory.

Jack Rabbit and Cotton-Tail.

The morning after my arrival I caught a nice string of trout in the stream before the house. In the evening I shouldered my breach-loader after a 4 o'clock dinner and went for a stroll. In about an hour I shot a beautiful jack rabbit and a cotton tail without going two hundred yards from the house. The cotton-tail is the same as a rabbit, or closely resembles it that you often see in the market at home. The jack rabbit I never saw or heard of until I was in California, where he abounds, as he does throughout this territory. He grows to weigh as much as fourteen pounds or more, consequently is ten or twelve times bigger than our common rabbits. His ears are nearly as large as those of a mule; his hind legs are long and as powerful as a grasshopper's; he is very timid, and whenever he sees any one, goes off at a tremendous pace by a succession of great leaps, with his stupendous ears perpendicular and stiff; as he runs he looks more like a young deer than an ordinary rabbit. Generally they will run quite a distance even when mortally shot, and a dog can no more catch him than he could a bird; at least any dog that I ever saw try, and I have seen it tried very often. I am told that greyhounds can and sometimes do. I shot a good many of these rabbits for sport, and generally ate them, but much prefer the cotton-tails, which are much easier to shoot, and consequently not half such good fun to hunt.

While sitting at dinner to-day, Mr. C. faced the window; he suddenly left his seat and brought his field glass; we soon learned that he saw a herd of about a dozen antelope inside of his fence, passing towards the Park. We could all distinctly see them, but of course they were out of shooting distance. An hour or two later, as we all sat on the porch enjoying our cigars and otium cum dig, we were agreeably entertained by a concert. The band that thus favored us was composed of cayotes or prairie wolves, whose dismal howl we heard very often during our stay on the ranch. Once or twice we had quite exciting races between our big dog and cayotes. Frequently while out driving or fishing or shooting I saw them, but never by any chance could I get near enough for a shot.

For nearly eight weeks we made this hospitable place our home. Saddles for both sexes, wagons and horses ad libitum, good roads in every direction over the plains, and the most romantic canons and mountain passes for saddle excursions, afforded us abundant sources of amusement. One day we rode some fifteen miles to the scene of a severe battle between the Utes and United States troops. It is on what is known as the Ute trail across the Saguache range. We saw quite a number of their graves, each marked by a pile of stones, put there to keep cayotes from digging up and devouring the body. The Utes still use this trail in going to and from their agency. There are numerous marks along it of recent encampments. At one place two trees had been stripped for six feet from the ground, and the whole of the white surface of their trunks covered with Indian drawings; on one tree they all represented mounted braves, with feathers in their heads and spears in their hands; on the other the figures were all dismounted and so indistinct that I couldn't make out whether they were white or red men.

Beauties of Camping Out.

Leaving the ladies at the ranche, we men would make excursions for a few days. One time we drove over to the Saguache river, and followed it for some twenty miles above the town of Saguache, passing some lovely grazing and dairy farms en route. The last ranche we passed was a horse ranche, where several hundred head of beautiful horses roam just as the cattle do on most of the ranches. Some distance above this place beyond the last settled point we pitched our tent, (figuratively speaking) which means we cooked our supper, rolled ourselves in our blankets and slept under the stars the sleep of innocence. Next day we had excellent sport until nearly noon, when a heavy rain commenced and spoiled our fun. We stood it until nearly 3 P. M., then, soaked to the marrow (water outside and old Monongahela inside) we gave up our proposed sojourn of two or three days, and put for Saguache as fast as possible; got stuck in a quagmire; broke our double-tree; had hard work patching it up with ropes, and got to Saguache at nine P. M., without a bite to eat since breakfast. We got some thirty or forty fine trout, and but for the rain would no doubt have done very well. A few days later two of us drove over to McPherson's ranch, on the South Arkansas, and had capital fishing for one day, catching one of two pounds and five ounces, two nearly two pounds each, several about one pound, and more than we chose to carry home of smaller ones. My companion, who is a more experienced and skillful fisherman with the fly than I, caught a larger number by a dozen or so, but I had the luck to catch the biggest fish, as I did, too, on another excursion the three men of our party made to Del Norte, on the Rio Grande. Here we joined three other men, who had a large tent and an Ethiopian "cuisinier." We followed the Rio Grande river some forty miles or more, stopping and pitching tent or going ahead just as the spirit moved us. This river is literally swarming with trout, so that we really could catch more than we knew what to do with; but we wanted big ones, and were not satisfied with anything else. But luck didn't favor us. I don't think there was a trout caught that would weigh over one pound and a quarter until we had turned to come back, when I again had the good luck to land a lovely one. He measured twenty-two full inches in length and weighed just four pounds scant on the scales. He is far the largest brook trout I ever saw. I caught him on a very small hook, not over five-eighths of an inch long, in the Rio Grande river, at Wagon-wheel Gap. I had hard work landing him with my light tackle, but I succeeded. On our way over to Del Norte from the ranch, we stayed one night at the ranch of a Mr. Dunn, a wealthy Englishman, who owns one of the finest places in the country. He has 9,000 sheep on his ranch, and a lot of cattle, too. Returning to the ranch we saw several fine thunder showers and got caught in a fine hail storm. This country is laid out on such a tremendous scale that it is a very common occurrence to see several kinds of weather at once. I remember one day in driving from Saguache ourselves, in clear weather, seeing two distinct rain storms in the valley and a severe snow storm on two of the Saugre de Christo mountains. One advantage about this is, you can generally see a storm some minutes before it strikes you, and get ready for it. Besides our longer excursions we made shorter ones every day or two. We could go out any time to one of the neighboring small streams and catch as many trout as we could eat for two or three days, but they were little fellows, from one-half a pound down. I shot a few mountain grouse and some wild ducks, as many rabbits as I wanted to, but got no large game, as it is unlawful to shoot that before September 1st. On our return trip we drove via Puncho Pass, Trout Creek and South Park, over the hills behind Pike's Peak. When we were just behind the Peak, gazing on his dark and gloomy looking sides we, were struck by a severe storm that fortunately lasted but a few minutes. When it passed, and the sun again shone on old Pike, he had put on a clean shirt; the short storm, that was but rain mixed with hail at our altitude of 9,000 feet, was a snow storm upon his upper story.

A Mountain Watering Place.

A couple of hours later we passed through the Ute Pass, one of the most beautiful of many beautiful gorges hereabout. A stream called the Fontaine qui bouille (fountain which boils) rushes down the pass; crossed several times in each mile by the road, so narrow is the pass. The unusual quantity of water made the numerous little falls very fine and turned the soft fall at the foot of the pass into a young Niagara. About a mile below this fall are the great mineral springs of Manitou, where are erected three very large and imposing hotels, all overflowing with ladies and gentlemen from all parts of America and Europe. The hotels are quite as good as any at Long Branch, Cape May or Newport, though not so large. There are nearly as many springs here as at Saratoga, and I like the water of the principal spring here—the Navajo, (pronounced Na-va-ho)—better than any of those at Saratoga, except the Congress and perhaps the Hathorn. The roads are good, and the scenery, of course, superb. We had caused some garments to be sent to us here from Denver better adapted to polite society than those we wore in the wilderness. We parted here with the older two ladies, who went to Denver by rail, and with Mr. C., who went back to his ranche. The rest of us, letting our own nags repose, drove with livery horses to Cheyenne canon, Glen Eyrie, the Garden of the Gods, and other usual expeditions. We luxuriated in the soda water baths, and we gazed upon or participated in the hotel hops as our respective inclinations suggested.

The only Pennsylvanian of my acquaintance at the springs was Col. Potts, of the Empire Line. I saw your old acquaintance, Mr. Josiah Copley, at Wagon-wheel Gap, on the Rio Grande, or rather at the hot springs, a mile from the Gap. He was living in a tent, in an encampment of people who had gone there for health. His own health has been much improved by the waters.

Last Sunday morning Don Cæsar and Charles Augustus, our prancing steeds, were again attached to our chariot and we were once more en route. Thirty miles Sunday, thirty-five miles on Monday, and we were again in the territorial metropolis, and our journey ended. H. H. K.

PERSHING'S RECORD.

Damaging Charges and a Direct Challenge.

We have charged that Mr. Pershing voted in the Legislature for a batch of Copperhead resolutions, the purpose of which was to obstruct the overthrow of the rebellion by placing this great State in an attitude of carping hostility to the measures deemed NECESSARY TO CRUSH TREASON and restore the Union. We have also charged him with "dodging" when that noble law was passed which relieved the farms and homes of Pennsylvania from an annual tax on real estate of ONE MILLION FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS. We now repeat these charges in their most offensive form. And we engage to prove them if any Democrat, or any Democratic newspaper, dares to deny them. To make our charge more aggressive, and to goad the Democratic organs to their denial, we add to them this: That the railroad corporations ALONE opposed this repeal of the tax on real estate, because the intention of making them pay a fair proportion of State tax, as an equivalent for the valuable franchises granted them by the people was a declared part of this scheme of finance. And this carries with it the obvious consequence—a consequence nothing can protect Pershing from—that all who shrank then from supporting this just and upright law were guilty of an act of enmity and injustice to the owners of farms and homes in our State at the dictation of the corporations their cowardice or their corruption induced them to serve. This charge is made with the determination to press it. A denial is respectfully and eagerly solicited. We engage to make it good if any Democrat dares to question it. And we agree to stand convicted of a gross injustice if we fail to prove what we charge.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, September 17, 1875.

A generally rainy day limited financial operations yesterday, the banks having a comparatively light demand. They are still in funds, but show a fair degree of rigidity in scrutinizing paper that is offered. Good paper will readily command any amount of money, while poor paper is not acceptable. Real estate is more active, but still there is not a solid market. The occasional suspensions that occur are the drawbacks to returning activity. Our city does not specially suffer in this particular, but not a day passes but in some part of the country there is a failure of sufficient local importance to give it a place in the Associated Press dispatches. In nearly all of the cases reported in the last month we find one general cause, viz.: the shrinkage in value of the property either owned by the failing parties or hypothecated with them by others. In the cases of banks that have failed—as of Schuchardt & Co., of New York—it is the shrinkage in value of mortgage bonds of railroads or other property, and in cases of merchants and manufacturers, it has in almost every instance been due to the shrinkage in value of the commodities in which their capital was invested. There was, however, one thing in each case that did not shrink, viz.: the amount of their debts. Notwithstanding the absurdities uttered in some quarters about there being no distinct debtor and creditor classes, there is a distinct debtor class, embracing the greater portion of the active mercantile and manufacturing business men of the country. Every farmer and real estate owner who has given a mortgage on his property belongs to this class; so also does every merchant who has bought goods on credit, and every manufacturer who has borrowed money to help carry along his business. Some of these may also be creditors to a small extent, but never in the same proportion as they are debtors. There is, however, one class who are not debtors, but are almost exclusively creditors, to wit, the capitalists. Compared to the debtors they are a small class, but the tendency of the present times is to transfer all property and wealth from the debtors to the capitalists. The fortunes of the debtors are merely the margins between their debts and the estimated value of their property. With the shrinkage of the latter their fortunes disappear. For six months now business men have been predicting the long-expected "revival of business" could not be deferred more than a month. Here this hope has not been wholly disappointed, and there is good reason for believing that the improvement in trade already begun here will increase greatly, but all the trade this fall will be done on low prices and small profits for all sorts of goods and commodities. As for other sections of the United States there is none where the prospect is half so good as it is here.

NEW YORK, September 16, 1875.

The customs receipts were $378,000. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $60,000. The clearings were $38,000,000. Bankers' bills 478@481. Gold opened at 116⅞, declined to 116⅝, rose to 116⅞, fell to 116⅝, and finally closed at 116⅞. The rates for borrowing were 1-32, 3-64 and 1-64 per diem, and 7, 6, 8, 2, 3 and 4 per annum. Loans were also made flat. Governments were firm. Railroad bonds were in good demand. State securities were quiet. Stocks, with the exception of a short period of weakness before the first call, were firm, and on the advance throughout the day the leading features were Pacific Mail, Western Union, Lake Shore, Northwestern, St. Paul and Erie, the improvement ranging from ½ to 2½ per cent. The greatest advance was in Pacific Mail, which rose from 33⅞ to 36, and closed at 35⅞. Western Union advanced from 78⅞ to 79⅞, and closed at 79⅞. Lake Shore rose 2 per cent., selling as high as 53⅞. The last sales were at 53⅞. Northwest advanced to 38⅞ for common and 53¾ for preferred, and St. Paul to 35⅞ for common and 62⅞ for preferred, the closing quotation being the highest of the day. Erie was firmer at the close, and advanced to 19. Rock Island rose to 107⅞ and Ohios to 17. Union Pacific was steady at 71, and New York Central at 103, both ex-dividends.

An award of $1,000,000 Government gold was made to-day at from 116.52 to 116.73.

A meeting of the creditors of Wm. Moller and Sons, sugar refiners, will be held on Saturday next. The creditors wish definite information in regard to the condition of the firm.

LONDON, September 16—3 P. M.—There is a lull in the market to-day, after great excitement over Erie yesterday. While there is comparatively little business doing, the market for American securities is steady. United States Government bonds are a shade easier; 5-20s of 1865 have declined ⅛ and 5-20s of 1867 ⅛. Erie advanced ⅛ since the close of business yesterday. Dealings, however, are on a limited scale. New York Central was quoted today, ex-dividend, at 91. Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, Sept. 16, 1875.

While there has been no perceptible improvement in business, there is a more cheerful feeling in regard to the future; confidence, which for a time was considerably shaken by the numerous recent failures and suspensions, is again being restored, and the crops appear to have turned out better than expected; the corn crop, for the safety of which fears were entertained, is now regarded safe, and furthermore, it promises to be a very heavy one. The agitation of the currency question has a damaging influence, but after the fall elections this will soon subside, and we look for an improvement in general business from this time forward.

BUTTER—There has been an increasing demand for some days past, and with a light supply, especially of good stock, prices have been advanced from 3 to 5c per pound; sales of prime to choice, solid packed, in firkins and tubs, at 28a30c; medium to good, 20a25c; common, 15c. A New York exchange, of the 15th, reports that market as follows:—"Very liberal receipts weaken the tone of the market, but as yet there is no decided change in the table of quotations that has been current of late. For the finest grocery grades we can learn of no variation whatever, but heavy lines of State and certain styles of Western, including good, sound, useful parcels of the latter, the buyer for the past few days has been favored with the inside line of prices. The choice pails and small lines of fresh are still selling upon arrivals, and in some cases are ordered ahead for local use. The outside list of buyers are not buying freely, all hinting at a desired concession. In this way they bid 30c for stock that was firm at 32c before the supplies added up so largely. Straight dairies of State are in some supply and quoted at 29@30c. We note that the letters of some of our most reliable houses urge country owners to release stock as fast as customers call for it. Without attempting to be prophetic, we would second this advice, as the possibility is that, as the season advances, there will be more soliciting for buyers on the part of owners than there was last fall and early in the winter. Dealers here express a determination to keep closely trimmed in stock, and will endeavor to avoid a repetition of the discomfiture that closed last year, by keeping more stock in the hands of retailers, feeling that that will be the true policy of adjusting quotations for what promises to be a very heavy supply."

BEANS—In light supply, but there is little or no demand and prices are nominal at $2a2,15, in a jobbing way.

BROOM CORN—There is a fair demand, but the general tone of the market is not as strong as it was a few weeks ago. A Chicago paper, of the 15th says:—The receipts of new continue light. The growers are now cutting the new corn, which promises to be of good quality, the weather of the past few days having been favorable to its development. It is not likely that the yield will be much larger than that estimated a few weeks ago, though some of the fields of late corn came up wonderfully during the warm spell, and most of the crop is now out of the way of frosts. We quote: Good to choice hurl, 12 1-2a13c; brush, that will work into a choice hurl broom, 11@12 1-2c; fair to good do, 10a10 1-2c; inferior brush, 8a9 1-2c; crooked, 6 1-2a8c.

BROOMS—In moderate demand, with a firm market. Manufacturers are not desirous of pushing sales, while Broom Corn is held so firmly. "Union Factory" Brooms: No. 2 common, $2.50; No. 3 hurl, $2,75; No. 4 hurl, $3,25; No. 5 hurl, $3,50; No. 6 hurl, $3,75; No. 3 carpet, $4; No. 4 carpet, $4,25; No. 5 carpet, $4,50; Fancy parlor, $4,25a4,50. Steamboat brooms, $3,50a4,50; Whisks, plain, $1,25a1,50; fancy whisks, $1,50a2; toy brooms, $1,25a1,75.

CHEESE—Prime Ohio Factory, in a jobbing way, is reported steady at 11½a12c. A New York paper, of Wednesday, says:—"The market here is unprecedentedly dull for the season, and there is nothing which promises any early improvement. Failures in several European houses create a pause in the wants of shippers, while sellers have no desire to put out heavily until confidence is restored or until the direct or indirect effect of the financial troubles are removed. A few shippers are buying on small orders, but will not pay more than 10½c for selected lots. Low grades of State and Western are at buyers' option, with but little local inquiry.

EGGS—The arrivals have been increasing for some days past, and the market is easier in consequence, but unchanged; 20c may be regarded as the ruling quotation for fresh. Our advices from New York report that market rather better; it is said that the arrivals there from Penna. are light, which is owing to the fact that the Philadelphia market is equally as good as that of New York.

FRUITS—Apples in good supply, but with a steady demand, which appears to be increasing, prices are still maintained; sales at $1,50a2,50 per bbl for inferior to fair, and $3a4 for good to choice. Peaches were dull to-day, in consequence of the wet weather; quotable at 50ca$1,25 per box, according to quality, size and condition. Plums, market bare; over for this year. Grapes, 4a5c per lb. Blackberries, $1a1,25 per bucket.

FLOUR—There is a fair degree of activity in the flour trade, although the inquiry is mainly for small lots to supply immediate wants; no change whatever in prices. Old winter wheat, $7,25a7,50 for red, and $7,75a8,25 for amber and white; old spring wheat, $7,25a7,50, the outside figure for choice Minnesotas. New flour cannot be quoted, as it is selling at a wide range, according to quality and condition.

GROCERIES—We have nothing new to note in the Coffee situation since yesterday. Our latest eastern advices report that business is pretty much at a stand-still; no sales of any importance having been made for some time past. Importers are firm in their views, but buyers show no disposition to operate, from which it is evident they are apprehensive of a decline. Sugars continue firm, and for refined goods there is a good demand, but at the close of the fruit season, trade will no doubt fall off. There is little or no movement in Syrups, Molasses or Rice, and the market for these is quiet and unchanged.

GRAIN—The grain markets are moderately active and more settled, although the inquiry, as a rule, is for small lots to supply immediate necessities. As noted in our last, old Wheat is easing up, in consequence of the improved quality of late receipts of new, and prices of the former are barely maintained. New may be quoted at $1,30a1,40, and old at $1,50a1,52 for red, as to quality and condition. The Oat market is steady, with a fair demand, but there has been no quotable change in prices for several days, and the arrivals are increasing; good prime Penna. and Ohio quotable at 45a46c for white, and 47a48c for white western. Oats cannot be put down here from Chicago at current rates. Corn continues dull, and with a heavy stock of old and every prospect of another large crop, prices are weak and drooping; shelled quotable at 73a75c, free in elevator, and ear at 75a77c, on track, as to quality. Rye continues quiet and nominally unchanged, 88a90c. Barley has commenced to come forward, but as yet trade in this market has been light, and prices may be quoted nominally at $1,15 for No. 2 Spring, and $1,20a1,25 for Penna. and Ohio Fall.

HAY—The market for baled is reported less active, notwithstanding the receipts continue light; quotable, on track, at $20a22 for timothy, and $17a18 for prairie. Sales of loose, from country wagons, at $15a21 per ton.

ONIONS—In good supply, but the demand is increasing, as it nearly always does at this season of the year; selling, in a jobbing way, at $2,50a3,00 per bbl.

POTATOES—Irish Potatoes continue quiet and unchanged; quotable at 40a45c per bushel, on track, and $1,25a1,50 per bbl. out of store. Sweets dull at $3a3,50 per bbl. for Baltimore, and $4a4,50 for Jerseys.

PROVISIONS—The market for the hog product continues quiet, and there are no new or important features worthy of notice. No recent change in prices, nor is it likely that there will be soon, unless it is in Lard, which appears to be heavy.

CATTLE.

The arrivals, both of local and through stock, were a little larger than those of the week preceding, but with more favorable advices from the East and an increased demand, especially for the regular Eastern markets, trade was more active, and there was a firmer feeling demonstrated; but in regard to prices there was a difference of opinion. Some salesmen reported an advance of 10a15c per cwt on all grades; others, while conceding an advance on common and medium, denied that there was any improvement in the best; while others took the very opposite of this, that prime cattle ruled higher, while the common and medium grades were about the same. We are led to the conclusion, however, that, notwithstanding better prices were realized in some instances, there was no general or quotable advance; but that the market was more active and firmer, that sales were effected with much less difficulty than last week, was very generally conceded.

The purchases for shipment to Philadelphia up until noon to-day footed 95 cars, or just about double as compared with the corresponding time last week; New York took 30 cars, country dealers, 85 cars; local buyers and butchers 21 cars, or 231 cars in all, which comprised about all that were on sale. When we left the Yards there were only some 14 or 15 cars unsold, nearly all from Kentucky, of good quality, but held above the views of buyers. The highest price reported was 7c, which was paid for an extra bunch of Southern Ohio steers, said to have been good enough for show cattle; last week there was nothing sold above 6.70, but it should be borne in mind that the cattle in question were 25 to 30c per cwt better in point of quality, and we have no doubt but they would have sold readily at 7c last week. All grades of butchers' stock sold quick and at full prices, as did also native stockers and Texas and Cherokees cattle, and upon the whole we think the market was all that could reasonably be expected under the circumstances.

QUOTATIONS.

Texas cattle, as per quality	3,50a4,50

HOGS.

The arrivals continue to increase, and notwithstanding there has been no improvement in quality, the great proportion consisting of grassers, the market to-day was weak, and, as compared with Wednesday, prices dropped 12a15c per cwt on best, and 15 to 20c on common. Hogs are nearly always higher at this particular time than at any other season of the year, as it is just between the old and new corn; the advices in regard to the corn crop continue favorable, while the assessor's returns in some of the western States show a falling off in the number of hogs. That there will be a heavy fall in the price of hogs within the next sixty days is almost certain, as packers would not dare to enter the market at anything like present rates. It is understood that a few contracts have been made for hogs—not many—on the basis of $7 at Louisville, $6,75 at Cincinnati, $6,50 at Columbus, Ind., and $6 at Des Moines, Iowa.

QUOTATIONS.

Philadelphia Hogs	8,75a9,50
Light Yorkers	7,75a8,00
Grass Hogs, as to quality	7,00a7,50
Roughs and Inferior	6,00a6,50

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The run was much larger than that of last week, but with an increased demand the market held its own better than was generally expected; while common stock, of which the offerings largely consisted, was a little draggy, prime fat sheep sold readily and at very full prices. There was a continued fair demand for good feeding wethers, which sold readily at 4a4¼, but Jersey Ewes do not sell as readily as usual at this season of the year. Lambs also continue dull, one reason of which is that the most of those offering here are common in point of quality. Prime fat sheep, averaging 100a110 lbs., were in brisk demand, with sales at 5¼a5¾c.

QUOTATIONS.

Extra 95a100 lbs	5,40a5,65
Good 85a90 lbs	5,00a5,25
Fair 75a80 lbs	4,25a4,50

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, Sept. 16, 1875.

The oil market continues very firm and considerably excited, and, as compared with yesterday, prices have been still further advanced. Crude was quoted this P. M. at $1,55a1,56½ for immediate shipment; Conduit certificates $1,35½a1,37; United ditto, $1,41¼. The present flurry is attributed mainly to a diminished production and an increased demand, but we apprehend that as soon as the market takes a turn backward, it will be discovered that there is no scarcity of the article, although there is no question but the production is comparatively light, also that development has been very much curtailed, in consequence of the ruinously low prices of late. Refined is also strong and higher; Philadelphia and Baltimore delivery held at 13c, with sales at 12¾, afloat to equal 11c on cars here.

The Barrel trade continues steady, but unchanged at $1,25a1,30 for countries, and city make at $1,40a1,45.

Barley in Europe.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The trade in malting barley is on a very restricted scale, as is natural at this season, but it will soon become of great interest, and prices of select qualities are liable to be high. The advices of the crop have long been uncertain, but according to the summary of the same published by Mr. Thomas Scott he estimates that it will be merely of inferior quality, and that the great pale ale brewers will find great difficulty in procuring superior foreign barley by way of supplementing the deficiency of fine home grown. The color of French barley continues to be repeated, leaving, unfortunately, much to be desired.

NEW YORK, September 16.—Business was sluggish with commission houses, and jobbers were only moderately active. The print market is unsettled, and some makes are jobbing below agents' prices. Cotton flannels and cheviots are in steady request, and cheviots are fairly active. Ginghams sold heavily ahead of productions. Dress goods are in moderate demand. Men's wear woolens ruled quiet, and flannels and blankets are less active.

Louisville Tobacco Market.

Breaks somewhat larger, comprising a fair assortment of good, heavy tobaccos, suitable both for home use and for shipment abroad. Prices showed some irregularity, but on the whole the scale of last week was fully supported, and medium and good leaf sold higher than a fortnight ago. The sales aggregated 115 hogsheads.

Late reports are confirmatory of the estimate that the crop of the stemming districts will not exceed half of a full yield, and that of the cutting districts three quarters. It is expected that the Clarksville district will make an average crop in bulk, though the average weight as indicated by the early cutting will be light. Better anticipations with regard to the results of the later cuttings are indulged in, especially if the season should prove late.

Chicago Seed Market.

The offerings of timothy were considerably increased, but mainly of the poorer qualities, for which there was little demand excepting from dealers, and they were willing to purchase only at their own figures; prime, however, continues to meet with a good demand, both on local and shipping account, and full former prices were maintained. Sales ranged at $1,75@2,35 for poor to good, $2,40@2,45 for prime new, and $2,50@2,65 for prime to choice old. There were no sales of clover reported. Flax remains steady and firm; sold at $1,40 for rather common.

THE marks last evening showed about 12 inches of water, but there are from 6 to 8 inches more than the marks show. Rained during the greater part of the day, and dispatches report rain at the headwaters, both of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers; however, it will require considerable rain to put our rivers in navigable condition.

THE A. J. Baker is off the ways at Mound City.

W. J. ABRAMS is one of the Mallie Ragon's pilots.

QUITE a number of the towboats in port are being put in readiness for the fall and winter trade.

THE John L. Rhoads passed Evansville on Monday, drawing all the water there was in the channel.

CAPT. JOHN L. RHOADS did think of leaving last night for Cincinnati to look after the Exchange.

THE Exchange has been repaired, and has again resumed her place in the Cincinnati and Pomeroy trade.

THE steamer Grand Lake and barges got off the bar in the Mississippi, where they were aground, by a rise in the river, and they left Memphis on Wednesday for New Orleans.

A ST. LOUIS paper says:—Capt. Alex. Lamont, of the Minnesota, was last trip drugged and robbed of that handsome $500 diamond pin, together with a fine gold watch chain and $105 in money.

CAPT. WM. H. THORWEGAN, owner and commander of the steamer Great Republic, has leased for a term of years the new Union Depot Hotel, St. Louis, saloon The house is to be fitted up in first-class style and be ready for business by the 24th. Henry Kerr will be the General Superintendent.

A COLORED preacher by the name of Steward took passage on the steamer Ashland the other day, and sat down at the first table. Captain Kyle requested him to wait for the second table. He said he would get up from the table when it suited him. The passengers on the boat compelled him to leave the table. Steward swore out a warrant for the arrest of the officers of the boat, but no person was arrested.

A MEMPHIS dispatch, under date of the 14th, says:—The Arlington passed down, this evening, loaded flat, putting off ten people. She laid up every night since leaving Cincinnati, owing to the bad river. She reports the Grand Lake and barge still in trouble at Osceola Bar. One of her barges is over, but the other is stuck fast. The tug Dispatch grounded the Indiana's barge at Island 66—150 miles below here—while trying to reach and aid the stranded steamer. The Rosa Miller, for Arkansas river, this evening, had a full freight trip.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch, under date of the 14th, says:—Business looking up. Nearly all the departures this evening had good trips. The James Howard is filling out slowly for New Orleans, but as she can take fully three thousand tons on the present stage of water, it will be a couple of days before she leaves. Captain Alf. Grisson, clerk of the Mary Bell, left the boat at Grand Tower and came up by rail. The new craft will arrive here to-morrow and it is thought she will be completed and ready to leave for the South by October 10. All of the upper streams are in a good stage. Rates to New Orleans are 50c for flour, and 25c per one hundred for pound freight.

TILL TAPPING.

A Man Arrested for "Going Through" a Money Drawer.

Last night, about half past eleven o'clock, officer B. J. Young arrested Dan. McIntyre, who was charged with robbing the money drawer in the saloon of Dan. Downer, in the Diamond. At the time named, McIntyre, it is alleged, stole his way behind the counter, and when the proprietor's back was turned, made a dive for the till, which he relieved of eleven or twelve dollars. He was arrested as stated, and taken to the Central Station, where he was locked up for a hearing this morning.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Let It be Stopped Before the Coroner Gets a Job.

It is the practice of a number of boys who congregate on Henderson hill, Third ward, Allegheny, to start stones rolling down the side of the hill, and there have been quite a number of narrow escapes from being hurt by these stones. Only a few days ago officer Phillipi came within an ace of being struck by a large stone while standing on Quarry street. He heard it coming down the hill and jumped to one side just in time, as the stone whistled past his head and broke into a dozen pieces at his feet. Yesterday afternoon a large stone, weighing probably twenty pounds, was started from the top of the hill on Henderson street, and rolled down and struck against the side of a frame house on Quarry street, occupied by Robert Huey. It caved a large hole in the side of the house and knocked down a handsome clock that was hanging on the wall in the inside of the house, completely ruining the time-piece. Several children that happened to be playing near being struck by some of the pieces of stone. The practice ought to receive some attention from the authorities.

THE RE-UNIONS.

Re-Calling the Days of the March and Bivouac.

The first re-union of the Fourth Pennsylvania Veteran Cavalry since the war will take place to-day, commencing with a business meeting at 2 o'clock P. M., at Turner Hall, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization, and ending with a banquet at 9½ P. M., at the St. Charles Hotel. An oration will be delivered by Col. J. S. The headquarters of the regiment are at the St. Charles Hotel.

At the meeting in Municipal Hall last night of the Sixty-second Regiment, the final arrangements for to day's reunion at Castle Shannon were completed. The following route over which the regiment will march was adopted: From City Hall to Sixth avenue, thence to Grant street, then to Fifth avenue, down to Wood street, along to Fourth avenue, up to Smithfield street and over the Monongahela bridge to the Incline Plane, where the cars will be taken at 10:30 o'clock for Castle Shannon. A resolution thanking the authorities for the use of City Hall and the reporters for giving publicity to the meetings was passed. Dr. Kerr, of the South Side, is to deliver the oration. A train will also leave at two o'clock in the afternoon.

The Fourteenth Cavalry holds its reunion to-day at Linden Grove, and the One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Regiment at Lafayette Hall to-night.

The reunion will be held this evening, at Masonic Hall, corner of Madison avenue and Washington street, Allegheny. It will be opened by an address from W. D. Moore, Esq., to be followed by a banquet and ball. Dispatches were received last night from Philadelphia, Indiana, and Butler, stating that delegations would be here, and a letter was read from General Couch, saying that he would positively be present.

CHANGE IN RAILROAD OFFICIALS.

Meeting of the Directors of the P. & C. R. R.—Resignation of President Cohen—Election of Mr. John King to the Vacancy—Resolutions.

The Board of Directors of the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad Company held a meeting yesterday at the depot, corner of Grant and Water streets, but the only business transacted of interest to the public was the announcement of the death of their late fellow director, Mr. Israel Cohen, of Baltimore, the resignation of President Mendes Cohen and the advancement to that position of Mr. John King. The following resolutions of respect to the memory of Mr. Israel Cohen were unanimously adopted by the Board.

WHEREAS, Since the last meeting of the Board our colleague, Israel Cohen, has been removed from us by death; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in this sad dispensation the Board has been deprived of a wise and judicious counselor, one whose long and faithful service made him a most valuable member.

Resolved, That we hereby testify our high appreciation of the excellent qualities which constituted his character, and that we will ever cherish his memory with the warmest affection.

Resolved, That we hereby tender his family our most sincere sympathy in their great bereavement.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the records of the Board and a copy thereof be sent to his family.

Mr. John King, Jr., of Baltimore, Vice President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, was then elected to fill the vacancy in the Board. Subsequently, Mr. Mendes Cohen, for the past two years and a half President of the Company, then presented his resignation. The Board, in accepting it, adopted the following:

Resolved, That the Board in accepting the resignation of Mr. Mendes Cohen desire to place on record its high appreciation of his services and its acknowledgements of the satisfactory manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the company. During his administration a marked improvement has taken place in all departments of the service, and notwithstanding the general depression prevailing throughout the country, the effects of which have been most severely felt by railroad companies, the monthly earnings show a gratifying increase. In retiring from the Presidency it affords the Board gratification to know that he will still remain a Director, so that the pleasant relations hitherto existing will not be severed but only changed in their character.

Mr. John King, Jr., was then elected President to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Cohen's retirement.

AN ALLEGED SWINDLER.

A Man Seeking Employment That He Didn't Hire—How a Railroad Agent Came to Grief—The Hearing Before Alderman McKenna—The Disposition Made of the Case.

The number of confidence men who invade the country districts and prey upon the "hard-handed sons of toil," have increased at an alarming rate within the last year, and in some cases farmers have been victimized to a large amount by the shrewd operators. So frequent has been the announcement that some one has lost heavily by dealing with this class, that scarcely can any one go into the country at the present time and find sale for what he may have to offer to the public.

It appears that these operators do not confine their business entirely to the rural districts of late, but on the contrary, some of them have turned their attention to the city, which is filled with laborers seeking employment. The dullness of the times make it necessary for them to make money, and as it is an old maxim that "necessity is the mother of invention," their minds have been exceedingly active in laying plans which would win. "Get money honestly if you can; if not, get it anyhow," appears to be their watchword, and so they make a raid upon the wallet of many a well-to-do man, who is entrapped by flattering promises which will result in a handsome competency.

During the early part of this week a man who called himself W. D. Lee made his appearance at a boarding house located at No. 108 Wylie avenue, and wanted to engage a lower front room for an "office," which he desired to occupy from nine o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon. He offered to pay five dollars per week for the accommodation, and as the landlady was paying forty-two dollars rent per month, she thought this would be a good opportunity to cut down her expenses, and accordingly let the room, which was nicely carpeted. The new comer agreed to have the floor covering taken up in a few days, with the understanding that he would supply its place by an oil cloth one. As soon as he was provided with a place for the transaction of business, an advertisement was inserted in the various city papers for fifty good railroad men, to work on a new road, known as the "Sciota Valley." There being a number of men in the city who were lying idle, they thought this a good opportunity to make a strike, as large wages were offered and cheap board furnished. These parties filed into the office of the railroad agent in regular squads, and for several days he had more business than he was able to attend to. The wages offered ranged from $1.25 to $4.50 per day, according to the station which the employee was to occupy. As soon as the men made application for a situation their names were registered, but a small advance, ranging from one to two dollars was charged for placing each name on the roll book. This was paid over with the understanding that it was the "fee" of the agent, which was due him for his trouble. It was also stated by the operator that he desired a little "divy" as an assurance that the men would respond when called for. Yesterday morning was the time fixed for the meeting of the "pick and shovel men," who were to be furnished with passes to their place of destination, but the railroad fare was to be deducted from the first month's wages, after they had gone to work. On Wednesday evening Mr. George Gillespie noticing a run at Lee's office almost equal to the one made on the Bank of California, thought he would try his hand on negotiating for a good situation, and accordingly called upon the employer when, he learned that all the best places had been taken. Gillespie, thinking everything was not right, went before Alderman McKenna and made an information against Lee, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. An officer was sent after him who found him with his valise packed ready to leave the city, but he was not permitted to take his departure, but was taken into custody. Yesterday a hearing was had, when a number of witnesses, who had been victimized, appeared against the defendant and told the story as we have already given it. Lee said in defense that he only had his satchel packed preparatory to changing his boarding place, and claimed to be doing a square, legitimate business. When asked to produce his papers showing his authority to act for the railroad, he said his contract was only a verbal one, and averred that he was a brother of the President of the corporation. Not being able to satisfy the Magistrate that he was acting in good faith, he was committed to jail for trial, in default of $500 bail. Not only are the would-be-railroad hands out of their money, but the landlady from whom he obtained his office is minus her rent and has a badly damaged carpet, as the result of the frequent visits made by individuals with muddy boots. Had it not been for Gillespie, who made the information, being acquainted with these sharp practices, having once served upon the police force, it is altogether probable that the successful Railroader would have turned his back upon the Smoky City on Wednesday night with a pocket well filled with the hard earned money of laboring men.

Lee is a medium sized man with dark hair and mustache and coal black eyes. He claims to be able to make a favorable showing at the time of his trial, which the authorities propose to give him an opportunity of doing.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Meeting of Workers at Rochester—Convention of the Pittsburgh Baptist Association—Interesting Discussions on Leading Questions.

The Sunday School Convention of the Pittsburgh Baptist Association met pursuant to adjournment at Rochester, yesterday morning at 9:30 A. M. The services were opened by devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. J. S. Hutson, of the Nixon street church, Allegheny, after which the Convention was called to order by the President, Prof. L. H. Eaton, of Allegheny. The first subject on the programme was "Elements of Success in Sunday School Teaching," introduced by Mrs. Thomas Corde, of Allegheny, and the discussion of the question was taken up by the Revs. J. W. Plannett, of Sharpsburg, J. S. Hutson, of Allegheny, J. A. Snodgrass and M. B. Sloan, of Rochester, and others. A paper on "Mission Work of the Sunday School," by Miss Z. Bunn, of Rochester, was then read, the treatment of the question showing an intimate acquaintance with the subject on the part of the writer, and on motion was requested for publication in the Baptist Witness. "How to Prepare and Teach a Bible Lesson" was ably introduced by Bro. F. J. Rebbecke, of the Nixon street school, Allegheny. The discussion which followed was engaged in by Revs. M. B. Sloan, T. J. Knapp, of Sewickley, J. S. Hutson and Bros. H. M. Matthews, of Kentucky, J. F. Hughes, of Pittsburgh, and Prof. Carey, of Fair Oaks.

Adjourned.

The Convention re-assembled at 2 P. M., and after singing and prayer the question "The whole Church in the Sunday school" was opened by Rev. J. W. Plannett, and was discussed by Revs. E. B. Lewis, of the Rochester Presbyterian church, J. F. Hutson, and Bros. F. J. Rebbecke, Capt. James Shedden, Profs. Carey and L. H. Eaton. An essay written by Mrs. T. J. Knapp on "Woman's Mission in the Sabbath School" was read by the Rev. T. J. Knapp. This paper which was a very able one, was also requested for publication in the Witness. "The True Aim of the Sunday School" was next introduced by Rev. J. S. Hutson, and discussed by Revs. J. A. Snodgrass, T. J. Knapp and M. B. Sloan. The opening of the question box followed, and questions of interest to Sunday shool workers, proposed by members of the convention were answered by Revs. Sloan, Hutson, Johnson, Plannett, T. J. Knapp, and Messrs. H. C. Fry, of Rochester; Matthews, F. J. Rebbecke, D. S. Anderson, of Pittsburgh; Geo. R. Lauman, of Sewickley; Riggs, of McKeesport and Prof. Carey. After singing and the benediction by Rev. E. B. Lewis adjourned.

Evening Session.—The evening session was largely attended, the large and beautiful house being filled to its utmost capacity. To many this was the most pleasing part of the meeting. The scholars of the Rochester Sunday School gave a practical illustration of "Object Teaching," building an arch—the Arch of Scripture Truth—interspersed with singing and short addresses by Revs. J. A. Snodgrass, T. J. Knapp, L. B. Lewis, J. W. Plannett and J. S. Hutson. After a most enjoyable time the delegates and friends returned to their homes with a grateful remembrance of the kindness, hospitality, and sociability of the people of Rochester. Although the weather was unfavorable the Convention was well attended, and the Sunday Schools of the Pittsburgh Baptist Association well represented.

A Lumber Transaction.

A bill in equity was filed in the Common Pleas Court No. 1 yesterday by John A. Gasten vs. Austin L. Clark. The orator says that on the 11th day of November, 1872, he entered into a co-partnership with respondent for the purchase and sale of a lot of lumber; that on or about the day aforesaid they bought of Orr & Love, of Jefferson county, Pa., thirty-two thousand feet of pine lumber, paying therefor twenty dollars per thousand feet, for which they gave their joint notes, payable in nine months and one year; that when the first note became due it was paid by complainant and respondent, $200 of the funds being taken out of the partnership, $70 being furnished out of the private funds of the orator, and $60 by the respondent; that the second note was paid in full at maturity by the complainant. It is further represented that the respondent has failed to account for the sale of said lumber and still refuses to do so, and the orator asks that the Court compel a full account of the sale to be rendered that an equitable division of the profits of the same may be made.

BISHOP McLAREN.

He is Canvassed by a Caucus Meeting—And Leads the Field.

A reporter of the Chicago Tribune, in a racy way, talks of a caucus meeting held the night before Dr. McLaren was elected Bishop of Illinois. He says: "A conference of the delegates was held last Tuesday evening, at the Sherman House, for the purpose of discussing the merits and demerits of the several candidates for Bishop of the Diocese. The attendance was full, and every precaution had been taken to prevent the slightest intimation of the nature of the proceedings reaching the public. A guard was detailed for each window and door, and in the discussions the rule established was that any amount of whispering would be tolerated. But, despite the precautions, the Tribune is enabled to lay before the public the gist of the meeting.

The conference was opened with prayer, after which one of the good brethren arose to inquire if any reporters were present in the garb of delegates. The inquiry was repeated several times, and finally the hint was given that if there were they would please retire. The hint proved entirely unnecessary, for the reporters at the time were removed from the immediate room, but in position to gather whatever transpired for the gratification of a news-hungry public.

The conference then proceeded to discuss the qualifications of the several candidates for Bishop. The most prominent candidates in the discussion proved to be the Rev. Dr. William E. McLaren, of Cleveland, O.; Dr. Ayrault, of New York; Dr. Lewis, of Washington; Dr. Hoffman, of Philadelphia; Dr. VanDusen, of New York, and Dr. DeKoven. Other names were prominently mentioned, but none seemed in the start to call forth such unqualified commendations as the name of Dr. McLaren. He was urged for the position by several influential members, as being in every particular adapted to the responsibilities and duties. Among other arguments, besides his individual and intrinsic merits, the loveliness of his wife was urged, but just what this had to do with his fitness for Bishop could not be understood by the reporter, but the idea met the hearty applause of the conference. In his favor it was said that he was recommended by Bishop McCloskey, of Michigan, and the intelligence of the Western Church, in proof of which letters were introduced from most of the Western States. Another argument in his favor was that he was a High-Church man, and it was maintained by his friends that he was head and shoulders above every other candidate in the possession of the qualities necessary for a Bishop for this Diocese, among which was that he was the peer of the lamented Douglas as an orator.

"Against him it was said that he did not enjoy the necessary age in the Church, and, beside, he was not sound on certain points. It was urged by some that he possessed the faults of Dr. De Koven intensified, and by others, who had heard him preach on modern science, that he was a follower of Martineau." Finally a ballot was taken and Dr. McLaren had a majority of one over Dr. De Koven. This showed the feeling of the clergy.

Among other interesting local items of Dr. McLaren's history, not heretofore mentioned by us, was the fact that he was connected respectively with the GAZETTE and Chronicle of this city, and in his earlier years was a student of the Western Theological Seminary. His sister is the wife of Rev. Dr. A. A. Hodge, of the Seminary, which we believe is his only relative residing hereabouts, although he has a very wide circle of friends.

TWENTY YEARS.

A Long Term for Retirement and Repose.

Yesterday morning a gentleman from Erie called upon Warden Wright, at the Penitentiary, and secured quarters in that commodious establishment, to be occupied by him for the next twenty years—in case the brittle thread of life withstands the strains upon it for that length of time. The visitor made good his claim to the apartments chosen by the presentation of an official certificate from the authorities at Erie setting forth, in substance, that he was addicted to nocturnal pastimes of a burglarious character, which rendered it desirable that he retire for a season from the bustling activities of an unfeeling world that could not appreciate his peculiar bent of mind. He donned the variegated garb provided for boarders at the institution and "wrestled his tack" as contentedly as any of them, last evening. Nine friends accompanied him from Erie, but they will only remain for terms of from one to three and four years.

····It isn't always safe, if your boot is pinching you, to pull it off in a place of amusement. A gentleman did that last night at the Opera House and now he wishes he hadn't done so. As the play was drawing to a close he tried hard to draw his boot on again but couldn't. His frantic efforts to get into the leather attracted the attention of the audience, and realizing how comic the situation was it roared with laughter. Adams and "Wild Oats" were completely forgotten. The man tugged and got red in the face, and the harder he tugged and the deeper the crimson grew in his face the more the spectators laughed. It was a scene not on the bills, but the picture of that man sticking his foot up before a thousand people and grunting audibly as he endeavored to incase it in its proper covering again will not soon be forgotten.

····A meeting was held yesterday afternoon at Kaye's saloon, on Penn avenue, between the representatives of Pat. Luther, of the Clipper club, and Frank Denmarsh, of the Sheridan club, for the purpose of signing articles for a single scull race between those men for $500 a side. At the conference on Wednesday night it was understood that Luther's friends had agreed to the course above Dam No. 1, on the Monongahela river, but yesterday afternoon that was not acceptable, and the result is that there is a hitch which will probably declare the match off. The Luther party are anxious for "excursion money," by taking the race to Hulton, on the Allegheny river. There were a large number of crack oarsmen at the conference, including Morris, Coulter, the Duquesne four oared crew, and others, who are taking great interest in the matter. It is hard to tell now when a match will be arranged.

Clerk Hartzell's latest and most popular work, just issued, is "Rules and Regulations for the Government of the Police Force of the City of Pittsburgh." It is in the author's best vein, and though founded on fact, is wonderfully interesting. The chapters about "cellar doors," "vagrants," "gunpowder," "crimes of great magnitude," "nuisances," "pawnbrokers," "thieves," and "bill posting" are intensely exciting. The book will have an extensive circulation, especially among policemen.

CRIME IN THE CITY.

Brief Mention of Minor Offences and Petty Criminalities.

PATRICK MCVEY charged James Little with the larceny of a coat valued at thirty dollars yesterday, before Alderman Donley, of the South Side. Warrant issued.

ABRAHAM DAILEY was charged with fraud by James Hanlon before Alderman Porter yesterday. The allegations are that the defendant removed his goods in the night with the intention of defrauding his creditors. Warrant issued.

THE case of Andrew Hampe who had been fined ten dollars by Mayor McCarthy, on an information made by Health Officer Gray, for the violation of the health ordinance of the city, and which had been taken to the Common Pleas Court No. 1 on a writ of certiorari, was argued before Judge Stowe yesterday, which resulted in the confirmation of the sentence as pronounced by the Mayor.

YESTERDAY morning D. W. Bell made an information before 'Squire McHendry, of Allegheny City, charging John McAllister and Wm. Stewart with perjury. He alleges that in the hearing of a case before a Manchester 'Squire against the proprietor of the Union Hotel for Sunday liquor selling, these defendants, as witnesses, swore that they had not purchased liquor on a Sunday within six months, and on this he proposes to take a stand and prove that they did buy it when they said they did not.

OCTOBER MAGAZINES.

Potter's American Monthly.

The number of this periodical for October, just issued, maintains the high rank that it has achieved. The monthly has no rival among the Family Magazines in its specialty, and this specialty, we need scarcely say, is a most important and desirable one in every American household—embracing valuable information in American History and Antiquities, in a pleasant, attractive form, and fostering by popularizing the study of subjects which no American should neglect, and which too many have neglected. This number is rich in other treasurers. The "Notes and Queries" are more than usually valutary, including among their contents a complete list of the Civil and Military officials of the British Colonies of America in 1772. The "Memoranda" are also excellent. Altogether, the October Monthly is a superior number of a superior magazine, and every family should procure a copy from the nearest dealer, or from the publishers John E. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.

Lippincott.

Lippincot's Magazine for October has been received and is particularly strong in descriptive poetry. The first illustrated one, by Edward Bruce, called "Wanderings with Virgil," gives a scholarly and delightful picture of classic lands on the Mediterranean, chiefly following the course of Æneas in Virgil's epic. "The Ocklawaha in May," by Sidney Lanier, is a delicious description of a trip on one of the rivers of Florida which is the itinerary of northern tourists. Mr. Lanier's poetry is known to the readers of the magazine, and his prose is full of poetry. Of the other descriptive articles, "A Day in Chinatown," by J. W. Ames, is particularly good, but the ladies will probably read with most delight Mrs. L. A. Hooper's account of the famous retail store of Paris, called "Le Bon Marche." Three new chapters of Mrs. Linton's story, "The Atonement of Leam Dundas," are given, and it grows in strength and interest. Christian Reid's "Story of a Conspiracy," is a nice, old-fashioned tale, told in the form of correspondence among the characters. "The Truth about Madame Ratazzi," which is translated from the French, presents that famous lady as a very noble character. Professor Francis L. Wharton contributes a brief paper on "Spiritualism and Jurisprudence" which relates to some famous witch trials and presents some striking points. The poetry of the number is from the pens of Emma Lazarus, Margaret J. Preston, F. A. Hillard and Edward Kearsley. Each poem is of the descriptive order, and each is excellent. The Monthly Gossip department is unusually varied lively this month.

THE Indiana, which left Cincinnati for New Orleans on the 28th of August, with a valuable cargo, and grounded in Choctaw Bend, in the Mississippi, below the mouth of White river, may prove a loss. A dispatch from Memphis says she is badly twisted and bent, with the water five feet lower than when she grounded. The Indiana was built at Madison, Indiana, in December, 1864, at a cost of $80,000, and was last inspected in July 1875, and valued at $15,000. She was a side wheel steamer, the hull being 209 feet long, 40 feet beam, 38 feet floor, with 7 1-2 feet depth of hold. She measured .745 tons, and would carry about 1,200 tons. She is insured for $10,000, in Cincinnati offices. There is also an insurance of about $50,000 on her cargo in Cincinnati, in addition to $3,000 on her freight list.

THE stern-wheel steamer Frank Morgan, while making a landing Wednesday at New Orleans, knocked a hole in her hull and sunk. She is a total loss. Valued at $4,500; no insurance; no lives lost.

A Health Yielding Stimulant.

It is suicidal for a man to drink ordinary liquor when he feels weak, to enable him to perform work in hand. The fatigue which labor produces is increased ten-fold by the debilitating re-action of the stimulants of commerce, so that the temporary invigoration is purchased at a fearful cost to health. A stimulant, in order to impart healthful energy, should be medicated. The reason that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are so wonderfully efficacious as a restorative and preventive is that their alcoholic basis of pure Old Rye is mingled with vegetable tonics and alteratives which are the most potent known to medical botanists. Their immediate or stimulative effect is to rouse the dormant energies, and their subsequent operation is to permanently invigorate, through the medium of restored digestion and secretion, the various organs of the body.
